

FATE OF MIDWAY MAY REST ON OUTCOME OF AIR-SEA STRUGGLE RAGING IN PACIFIC

NO MORE THREE R'S—These happy, smiling faces and this rush for swimming pool, fishing hole, or playground, could signify only one thing. School's out! The rush for summer fun and play is on again as Atlanta school children exchanged their textbooks yesterday for fishing rods and bathing suits. Here youthful evacuees from book learning desert the learned portals of the Clark Howell school on Tenth street for vacation fun.

New Housing Near Marietta Said Unlikely

New housing construction near Marietta for Bell bomber plant workers was subjected to a dash of very cold water yesterday by a National Housing Agency representative, while officials of three governments and the Army were striving mightily to wipe out a threatened transportation "bottleneck" on North Side drive and at the same time push through the Bell water main from Atlanta to the plant site by July 15.

The involved picture of the war plant's status included these phases:

1. J. S. Knowlton, special representative of the National Housing Agency, declared indications are now that very little permanent housing will be needed for the plant and little will be built because of the use of critical materials. Some temporary "war apartments" and dormitories may be constructed—but now it appears that most of the 12,000 men to be hired first will be housed in existing dwellings.

Seek Solution.

2. Engineers of the United States Public Roads Administration are seeking to untangle the Bell water main mix-up by getting the government to pay the cost of removing the present city water main under North Side drive to Howell Mill and Moore's Mill roads—this opening the way for widening North Side drive from Fourteenth street to Arden road and eliminating this present "bottleneck." This project would cost more than $800,000—borne largely by the federal government and the State Highway Department.

Controversy between the city and county over construction of the Bell water main, stopped completely at the moment, was stalemated—awaiting the return to the city of Colonel R. E. York, district Army engineer.

3. City officials asserted they are willing to co-operate with the government and Army in any and every way.

Knephton's assertions regarding the need for new housing probably will throw a jolt into many holders of real estate on the north side and in Cobb county near the bomber site, because earlier reports were that thousands of new dwellings were to be built.

Plans have been made, it was said, for numerous privately financed sub-divisions near the plant.

No Report.

Emphasizing that he has made no report, has none to make at the moment, and has come to no final conclusions, Knowlton based his statement on new housing need indications upon the last report on available labor for the bomber plant, upon the likelihood that more men will be laid off here before it gets into operation by manufacturers unable to get materials, and upon the last report on dwelling vacancies in this area.

There was a gross vacancy rate for both white and Negro of 2.5 per cent last April, and Knowlton asserted that reducing this vacancy rate to one half of one per cent would give 1,700 more dwelling units.

The indications are there will be no trouble in getting labor, the 12,000 men the plant intends to employ at the beginning," he said. "The 1,700 new vacant dwellings would be available for incoming laborers."

Labor reports later, on available men and labor wanted, may change the picture, it was pointed out.

In the water main stalemate, the decision as to what will be done about the 20-inch main under North Side drive awaits developments from several sources.

The suggestion that new water pipes bought by the Army for connecting the Bell plant with the city's system be used to lay a new line from Bishop street, along Howell Mill and Moore's Mill roads is being considered.

If this were done, the line now under North Side drive would be taken up and the pipe used to replace the Army's pipe from the plant.

SEEK SECOND FRONT—"Open a second front" was the warcry of this rally in London's Trafalgar Square, following Prime Minister Churchill's statement that such demonstrations by the people are encouraging.

Plan to Rebuild Cities Offered To Ease Shock

By AL SHARP.

A $100,000,000 program to rebuild American cities as soon as the war ends was proposed yesterday by Herbert U. Nelson, of Chicago, secretary and founder of the Urban Land Institute, as the solution to unemployment problems.

Nelson, who is in Atlanta to address a regional conference of real estate men this morning at the Ansley hotel, said the program stretched over 20 years would equal the war effort in employment of men.

"We've got to be ready to start the day the war ends," Nelson went on. "Planning commissions should be organized and prepared to move the suburbs into the city, utilizing all land."

"The cities should be planned in neighborhoods, and restrictions should be enforced. The good appearance of a city is just as valuable as health, and city government has a stake in it."

"Special districts for industry should be set aside here, and the planning commission we plan to organize in Atlanta should give room for expansion. Business areas should be set off and not allowed to get out of bounds."

"Strict zoning laws should be enforced, but there should be variety, in other words, although the minimum for a home in a given area would be $5,000, others wishing to build homes costing much more should be encouraged to come in."

In enlarging on the 20-year program, Nelson pointed out a $10,000 home uses 300,000 parts.

"Planning also leads to economical use of land," he said. "A third of Chicago town property is vacant, because we don't want homes next to factories and business places."

"The Atlanta planning commission should make its plans and get ready to buy property in different parts of the city with government help," Nelson stated. "Then the property could be developed into neighborhoods which would be protected."

Nelson, who is executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said the government is planning to start the nation-wide program with financial, as well as other, aid. The National Resources Planning Board and PHA are "very much interested," he added.

Asked about wartime problems of housing—specifically the one at the Bell bomber plant near Marietta—Nelson suggested temporary barracks and small apartments be built to last about three or four years.

Weather Note To Hens: Use Watery Nest

"This is Betty Henry. I'm 13 years old and I live at 5 Davis circle," said the voice over The Constitution city room telephone.

"Is this where you turn in stories? Well, I've got one I don't think you ever heard of."

"I was out in the back yard yesterday and I saw a hen scratching around in the water. This morning I found an egg there."

"I guess it just must've been too hot for her to lay on the nest."

Nazi Invasion Barges Moving Into Baltic Sea

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch quoting "reliable sources" in Stockholm said today that flat-bottomed invasion boats, which the Germans massed in large numbers along the Dutch, Belgian and French coasts in the summer and fall of 1940, were being moved in growing numbers through the Kiel canal into the Baltic sea.

An invasion of Sweden by Germany, particularly if the United Nations make a move into Norway, has been rated by expert observers for weeks as one of the top possibilities on Hitler's 1942 schedule. The Associated Press, in a symposium of expert observers' opinions, reported on April 15 that Hitler "seems to be preparing for an invasion of Sweden."

While the official communiqué said enemy carriers "were accompanied by battleships and cruisers," there was no indication whether a major portion of the Japanese fleet was engaged. The fact that this force had ventured more than 2,000 miles from its home base, however, led observers in Washington to surmise that this time the Japanese intended to wipe out the island, "last American outpost in the Pacific to the northwest of Hawaii."

E. E. Whitaker, the theater man, thought if he just rubbed his eyes it would go away. So he rubbed his eyes. But it didn't. It just kept sitting there on the curtain rod over the window, staring bleakly at him out of black, unblinking eyes.

It looked like a pocket-sized eagle. It didn't move a feather. Whitaker didn't move a muscle.

"I'll give it two minutes," said Whitaker. "If it doesn't move by then I'll know its stuff."

It didn't move.

Dusty Rhodes, the bookie, stuck his head in the door.

"Look at the stuffed bird somebody put up over my window," said Whitaker. "Some sort of wisecrack, I guess. I'll probably get a telegram from some of those guys down on Film Row saying 'I hear somebody gave you the bird.'"

Rhodes was suspicious.

"It's a press agent gag of some sort," he said. "Somebody is probably releasing a picture soon called 'The Hawk' or something. Probably some of them RKO guys."

"It's a neat job of stuffing, all right. It looks real," said Whitaker. He reached up for the bird. There was a flurry of feathers

Jap Man o' War, Carrier Struck In First Attack

HONOLULU, June 5.—(AP)—An air and naval battle, possibly with the possession of Midway island at stake, presumably was in progress today off the low-lying outpost northwest of Hawaii, following an attempt in force by the Japanese yesterday to raid the strongly fortified base.

The enemy ran into a hot reception, said a communiqué by Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, and suffered direct hits on at least one battleship, an airplane carrier and possibly other warships. In addition, the defense forces took a heavy toll of attacking warplanes.

Midway's defenders continued the attacks on the enemy, Admiral Nimitz said, leading to comment by naval experts in Washington that the ensuing engagement may have been one of the most important battles of the war in the Pacific so far.

No Token Raid.

These sources went so far as to say the outcome may determine the enemy's ability to strike again at Pearl Harbor, at Alaska, the west coast of the United States or even the Panama Canal.

That the enemy had in mind no mere token raid, like the five previous slashes at Midway, they pointed out, was indicated by the presence of capital ships, carriers and cruisers in the attacking force.

First official reports of the attempted raid on Midway, located some 1,150 miles northwest of the Hawaiian Islands, did not mention casualties but said damage to material installations had been small.

All armed forces were represented in the action, it was announced, indicating the garrison of tough Marines was supported by naval units and air forces.

Island Alert, Ready.

When the enemy struck shortly after dawn yesterday he found an island alert and ready. Forewarned by the earlier attacks on Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and inspired by the historic defense of Wake island, the defense forces repelled savagely. Five times previously they had beaten back enemy attempts to take the island, the last previous one in March.

Admiral Nimitz himself was on the island only last month, to decorate four Naval and Marine officers for heroism in previous raids. He commended them the ground and air defenses under command of Commander Cyril T. Simard.

In those attacks enemy submarines shelled the island while warplanes fought overhead. In the March 10 attack a huge four-motored Japanese patrol seaplane was shot down by Marine Corps aviators.

While the official communiqué said enemy carriers "were accompanied by battleships and cruisers," there was no indication whether a major portion of the Japanese fleet was engaged. The fact that this force had ventured more than 2,000 miles from its home base, however, led observers in Washington to surmise that this time the Japanese intended to wipe out the island, "last American outpost in the Pacific to the northwest of Hawaii."

Cologne 'Forever Lost,' German Press Reveals

Rhineland's Historic City 'Still Smoking'

BERN, Switzerland, June 5.—(AP)—The first Cologne newspapers since the monster RAF raid of last Saturday night reached neutral territory today, carrying the somber statement that the historic Rhineland city, as its people have known it, is "forever lost."

The Koelnische Zeitung, resuming publication on Wednesday of this week, described Cologne as "still smoking ruins," with some fires still alight and "whole quarters of the town empty."

(A German dispatch quoted by the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said all the property of 10,000 persons had been destroyed; that the central district of the city was ruined and that the damage had reached deep into the suburbs.)

Said the Koelnische Zeitung: "The entire aspect of the city is completely changed. Tens of thousands of inhabitants during that night learned with horror that the individual is powerless against fate."

Damage 'Irreparable.'

The newspaper avoided saying whether the vast and magnificent Gothic Cathedral, famous the world over, had been hit, but it did say that "most of the precious monuments which have held a chief place in German art were more or less destroyed by fire and are irreparable." It went on:

"Those who survived the night of May 30 and who on the morning of May 31 at the city were fully aware that they had bade farewell forever to their Cologne, because the damage is enormous and because the integral part of the character and even the traditions of the city is gone forever."

"Everywhere the same spectacle—indescribable destruction. Only shattered windows and walls are seen."

"Around the Church of St. Martin and the Church of St. Maria Im Capitol the ruins still are smoking."

10th Century Relic.

The gross St. Martin is a Romanesque church with a foundation attributed to the 10th Century. It is situated a few hundred yards from the Cathedral. St. Maria Im Capitol, a Romanesque basilica of the 11th-13th centuries, is nearby.

A Berlin dispatch to the Zurich newspaper, Neue Zuercher Zeitung, quoted the following statement to

53 Feared Dead In Explosion at Ordnance Plant

JOLIET, Ill., June 5.—(AP)—An explosion inside the Elwood ordnance shell-loading plant left 53 men dead or missing today, but it halted production in only one of 12 units inside the plant, one of the biggest in the nation.

One building was destroyed at 2:45 a. m. (central war time) as a night crew packed cartons and loaded box cars with explosives. Army officers said there was no suspicion of sabotage.

Captain David P. Tunstall said 21 persons were known to be dead and 32 others were missing.

Only 10 bodies had been identified 12 hours after the blast. Others were literally blown to pieces and fingerprint experts were summoned to help with identification.

Calls were being made to homes of missing to see if, by their own good luck, they had stayed away from work last night.

Tunstall's original list of dead and missing contained 57 names, but it was quickly shortened as workmen were located in hospitals and away from the plant.

The ordnance plant's hospital treated 41 injury cases. Five were reported of a serious nature.

The ordnance department's policy of scattering buildings over an immense area—the Elwood plant covers 15,000 acres of flat prairie—helped localize to one building the explosion that was as far away as 100 miles.

With one ear-splitting roar and a flash of flame, the shipping building in group two was demolished. Group two consists of four major buildings, inter-connected but strung along the distance of a mile.

Army officers said the shipping plant could be replaced with less trouble than other ordnance buildings and that group two would be back in production "very shortly."

Meantime the 11 other loading lines continued on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Governor's Plans To Be Bared July 4th

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

The inexorable monotony of all this "continued warm" weather got the best of Governor Talmadge yesterday morning.

An hour and 15 minutes ahead of schedule he staged a hurried press conference and, even before a quorum could be assembled, he announced he would do things to this July 4th that would make it a "double malted" in importance to posterity. On that date, he indicated yesterday, he will announce his readiness to accept reelection as Governor of Georgia.

The Governor revealed he had accepted an invitation to speak at Moultrie on July 4th, the gates of the south Georgia city having been flung wide to him on that date by a "representative group" of Colquitt county farmers, the Colquitt county commissioners and the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce.

Before Revelation.

Not so many hours before this revelation, the Governor had studiously avoided all questions about when he intended polishing off his siege guns to withstand any assault on his occupancy of the Capitol. He was in a dripping perspiration late Thursday afternoon, sweating over a "Father's Day" proclamation and gazing moodily over the Capitol lawn, wandering what the Democratic state executive committee would do when it met today at noon at the Ansley hotel's Rainbow Room.

Then came the cloudburst from Moultrie yesterday morning and the Governor announced:

1. The receipt of a set of resolutions from the Colquitt county farmers urging him to serve as the No. 1 sparkler in their July 4 fireworks. The resolution was presented by Representative John T. Barlow.

2. A letter from H. McDowell, vice president of the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce, putting the chamber on record: "It is our intention to try and get the biggest crowd for you that you have ever had."

3. The follow-up invitation from the Colquitt county commissioners. The Governor grinned effishly

Huge Convoy Arrives in India Without Loss of a Ship or Life

Number of Harbors Needed To Unload

NEW DELHI, India, June 6.—(AP)—The United Nations have reinforced India with the greatest convoy of modern equipment and fighting men ever to reach that subcontinent. It was officially announced today, at a time when Japan's troops seemed moving with determination within 45 miles of the Indo-Burman border.

RAF Fighters Sweep Entire Channel Coast

Vast Operations Follow Bombings in Calais, Dunkirk Area.

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—RAF fighters swept over nearly 400 miles of the German-held continental coast this afternoon in what the air ministry announced was one of the biggest simultaneous offensives by these swift craft in all the war.

These vast operations ranged along the entire French channel coast from Belgium to Brittany and followed morning bombing attacks upon the Calais and Dunkirk area.

Four separate sorties were made, three in which American-made bombers attacked targets at Ostend and LeHavre and airdromes at Morlaix and Lannion, bases 100 miles across the channel from which German convoy raiders operate.

The other attack was of a diversionary nature and was made by more than 100 Spitfires thrusting inland to Abbeville. Morlaix and Lannion were attacked in a single operation against heavy anti-aircraft fire but little Nazi fighter opposition, the air ministry reported.

Airdromes Blasted. The raiders planted their bombs squarely on Nazi airdromes and everyone of them returned safely home.

Before the Germans had recovered from the shock of the first sortie, Lannion was attacked again by British Whirlwinds, each blazing away at low level with all four of their cannons. They were accompanied by Spitfires.

At Morlaix British pilots on a follow-up sweep found buildings and hangars ablaze. The second section shot up planes which the Germans had hurriedly pulled from the burning hangars.

While the Ostend and LeHavre attacks were in progress, the German ground staff at Abbeville had a grandstand seat for dogfights in which their own airmen came out second best, although at least 50 Nazi craft were hurled into the battle.

Up Before Dawn. Part of the fighting which developed on the dawn raid took place directly above the airdrome. One German was sent down almost on his own runway and another plummeted in flames on the outskirts of town.

The RAF beat the sun up and in the half light dawn started massed formations of fighters and bombers across the channel in a day-long procession.

Industrial targets along the Nazi-held continental coast were followed upon by the daylight raid which kept most of Britain's bombers at home last night. Despite bad flying conditions over inland Europe, the RAF made short night hops across the channel to blast Dieppe and airfields in the Netherlands.

It was the second raid-free night for Germany proper out of the last six.

Targets included those in the Calais-Dunkirk area, harbor works at LeHavre, airdromes in Brittany and military establishments at Ostend.

The British announced losses for the day were six fighters each for both sides.

47 Axis Ships Sunk
By RAF During May

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—Forty-seven Axis freighters and warships were sunk or damaged by the RAF in the North sea, the Atlantic and Mediterranean during May, the air ministry said today.

An official review of operations last month said the RAF destroyed 283 Axis airplanes over Europe and the Middle East and lost 307 aircraft. The total included 64 planes lost in offensive action against Germany and occupied territory in daylight and 130 lost over Europe at night, it added.

U-Boat Menace Reported Cut On East Coast

'More Protection' Promised for Shipping in Southern Waters.

By The Associated Press. Naval officers of the eastern sea frontier, a wreck-littered stretch of 1,200 miles extending from Canada to Jacksonville, Fla., said today that the submarine menace in this district was steadily decreasing and that steps were being taken that would insure more gasoline for the drying New England states.

This information came as Rear Admiral James L. Kaufman, commander of the Gulf sea frontier, promised more protection for vessels plying between Jacksonville and the Mexican border.

Kaufman, recently transferred to Miami from Iceland, said "We must consider this area as a battlefield until every enemy submarine which enters it is destroyed."

Meanwhile, three more ship losses in the Atlantic—one Dutch, one Norwegian and one British—were reported, bringing the total to 20 this week and the total officially announced Atlantic attacks to 247 since Pearl Harbor.

'Critical Period.' Commenting on these losses naval authorities said today that they were severe and that the next four or five months would be a "critical period."

In New York, naval officials said that less than one per cent of 2,500 ships leaving an eastern port had been destroyed. They said that antisubmarine activity by planes and ships had driven U-boats southward to the Gulf and the Caribbean.

They emphasized that American naval and air forces are still inadequate to cope with the problem completely and that it was up to America's bumbling shipyards and factories to produce the necessary vessels—and planes.

"We've got to take it on the nose and on the chin until production catches up with the needs," a spokesman said.

Defensive steps are being taken to insure oil tanker deliveries along the coast. A "fair" improvement has already been made. Another cheering statement from the eastern frontier was that more than 90 per cent of the crews of the ships torpedoed in the Atlantic had been rescued.

Problem More Critical. Declaring that the "German submarine of today combines the characteristics of a destroyer and a submarine" because of its speed and guns, an officer said the problem was much more critical than the last war.

"They are using subs with a surface speed of 20 to 22 knots and they carry 12 to 16 torpedoes," he said.

Frontier officials reiterated their request for more radio marine telephones. They said many small privately owned ships had been rejected by the Navy because of the lack of radio equipment and general unseaworthiness.

Chairman Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, of a naval affairs subcommittee, said in Washington Thursday that "if we are not entirely satisfied that everything possible is being done to halt these sinkings, we are going into the whole matter in public."

U. S. Army Officers 100,000 Japs Fiercely Assail Chuhsien Walls

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, the youthful chief of the daring British Commandos, disclosed today that the Commando general staff included American Army officers.

He made this disclosure in a brief talk to American newspapermen in which he told how the Commandos raided the headquarters of Field Marshal Rommel in Africa, with the intention of killing Rommel and his staff and depriving the Nazis of leadership at the moment of the last great British offensive there. Rommel, it developed, was in Rome attending a birthday party, but the Commandos got his staff.

"He had to get a new staff," Mountbatten said, "but unfortunately he was still the same Rommel."

Work Described. Trim, tall and erect in the white uniform of the British navy with the golden cords of an aide-de-camp to the King along over and under his right shoulder, Mountbatten stood behind a table at the end of a hotel drawing room and described the work of his organization.

He was sorry, he said, that so much emphasis was given to the Commandos, because it gave the impression that in England there was just that one small group that was anxious to fight, and because the other services were an integral part of his organization and took part in the Commandos raids.

"Combined operations," of which he is chief, with the honorary rank of a lieutenant general and air marshal, was "not a separate service," he said emphatically, but a combined staff. And on that staff, he added, are American officers, so that actually it is an inter-Allied combined staff.

Plan Raids Separately. The staff members live together in one building, and so get to know each other. One small group plans each raid, without its members knowing what raids other groups might be making preparations for. This, Mountbatten said, was to keep the number "in the know" to a minimum.

Carefully skirting the subject of opening up a second front in Europe, Mountbatten commented on the large number of people in England who were eager to "get at the enemy," and who had tried in every way to obtain places in the Commandos.

"The desire to get at the enemy is very great," he said, "and it's our lucky duty to exploit that job and organize the operation that will get us at the enemy."

Army Is Ready
If Japs Insist
On Using Gas
United Nations Have Edge in Production of Weapon.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—The Army is fully able, officials reported today, to make effective President Roosevelt's threat to retaliate if the Japanese persisted in the reported use of poison gas in China.

Major General William N. Porter, chemical warfare service chief, said only last month, they noted, that "We are ready" if the Nazis started using this form of warfare.

"We could give it to them as well—if not better—than they," he said, adding that it was "positively true" that the United Nations had an edge over the Axis in gas production.

Principal Arsenal. The Army's principal chemical warfare arsenal, much expanded in size, has long been operating on a 24-hour basis. Two large new arsenals in the south and west were scheduled to add their productive capacities this year, along with some 15 other chemical warfare plants throughout the country.

The Army has given much emphasis to defensive measures, such as providing gas masks for every soldier, along with protective clothing as deemed necessary. A start has been made toward providing masks for civilians, although General Porter said recently that "I do not expect that gas will be used by our enemies anywhere inside the continental United States" because bombs probably would be favored by raiders.

Offensive measures nevertheless have received much attention on the principle that the ability to retaliate immediately is possibly the best insurance against an enemy gas offensive.

10,000 Killed in Two Days of Fighting, Chinese Say.

CHUNGKING, June 5.—(AP)—The Chinese high command announced tonight that the Japanese had hurled 100,000 troops in fierce new onslaughts against the walled defenses of Chuhsien, but said the western Chekiang province rail town still held out as a barrier to a broadened scheme of Japanese conquest.

Attacks in two days of intensive fighting on three sides of the town in one of the closest air base areas in the coastal province had cost the Japanese 10,000 casualties in two days.

Underlining the importance of the defense stand there, high Chinese quarters said the eastern seaboard province had been marked by the Imperial command at Tokyo for the first blows of an intended knockout of all southeastern China that would open overland communications with French Indo-China, Thailand and Burma.

Japs Said Concerned. These sources said that Japan, concerned over a shipping shortage and the possibility that the Allies eventually might threaten seriously the coastwise shipping lanes, hoped to smash on from Chekiang across Kiangsi, Hunan and Kwangsi provinces for rail and road connections with Indo-China.

Fighting already has intensified during the past week in Kiangsi province just west of Chekiang, where the Japanese have a wedge from the north, and in Kwangtung province, where a wedge is being driven up from the Canton area to the south.

The high command's announcement that the Japanese suffered 8,000 casualties yesterday alone in dawn-to-dusk assaults on Chuhsien was taken by some observers as an indication that the tide of fighting might be turning against the invaders in this key salient. During the first part of the week the Japanese swept rapidly toward the town in a drive which carried them within three miles of the northern city limits.

Assaults Renewed. This morning, with the arrival of more reinforcements, the Japanese renewed their onslaughts, and most sanguinary fighting is now in progress, a communiqué reported.

It said the Japanese, despite support of their field guns and bombers, were held off by point-blank Chinese artillery fire and rolled back in fierce hand-to-hand conflict in the sectors north and south of the city.

The little farm town of Ling-shan, northeast of Chuhsien, was reported recaptured.

Another reported battle was reported underway in Kiangsi province south of Nanchang, one of the Japanese-held terminals of the Hangchow-Nanchang railway which runs through Chuhsien.

The Chinese said the Japanese also were meeting stiff resistance in their thrust north from Canton, and announced that new Japanese attempts to cross the upper Salween river in Yunnan province, bordering Burma, had been repulsed.

Sweden Population Increased in 1941

STOCKHOLM — (IN) — Sweden's population increased by 35,042 in 1941 to a total of 6,406,474, according to the census figures announced recently.

French Would Back Invasion of Europe

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—An authority with the best of information on conditions in France declared today that "the dammed fifth column you ever saw" would spring into action against the Germans if a second front were established in France.

Further, he said the bulk of the French fleet was at Toulon in southeastern France, under orders to yield to no one, Axis or Allies.

The people of both occupied and unoccupied France, this authority declared, would begin immediately to increase sabotage and to snipe at their German oppressors once the United Nations established a foothold in France with a reasonable certainty of keeping it.

Dislike Leaders. The French were described as thoroughly out of sympathy with the men at the top of their government, with the exception of Marshal Henri Petain, the chief of state.

Although the Germans put on pressure to make Pierre Laval head of the government, this source said that if Laval could not deliver what the Germans wanted, and apparently he could not, he would be ousted.

In such event, it was said Laval's successor probably would be Jacques Doriot, former legislator and publisher, and a leader of the Popular party. While Laval was described as contending he was not a Nazi collaborator, Doriot was said to have avowed openly his support of the Nazi regime.

To Keep Fleet. Some units of the French fleet were said to be at the African port of Casablanca and Dakar, but most of it at Toulon.

"The French government," this authority declared, "doesn't intend to turn it over to the Germans. But it didn't intend, either, to put Laval in charge of the government."

"The French fleet is assumed to be sufficiently loyal to carry out orders."

If anyone tries to take over the fleet, its orders are to send the warships to the bottom, it was stated. A lot of the navy, he said, does not want to help the Nazis, but some of it would if ordered to do so. And, by and large, the French navy has little liking for the British.

Disrupt British. The French would take the greater stimulus for an uprising against their conquerors if Americans participated in opening a western front in Europe, this person declared. They have little confidence in the British, he said, although probably they would welcome it if Britain evoked "more than six men" in France and kept them there.

Commando raids, as well as American pamphlets dropped from the air and American short wave broadcasts, were described as having made little impression on the French. It was noted, however, that the Nazi domination of the French press is virtually absolute and that few persons can have radio sets adequate to bring in American broadcasts.

Many Frenchmen were reported to view with favor Britain's raiding on plants making weapons and supplies for the German armed forces, although naturally regretting the loss of some French lives.

Similarly, it was said, the French probably would approve arrangements by which the United States might take over the protectorate of the French island of Martinique in the Caribbean.

Lyttleton Seeks
'Integration' of
Output for War
Both Long, Short Term
Plans Engage Joint Agency.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Britain's minister of production, Sir Oliver Lyttleton, said today that the objective of his visit to this country was the "integration of British war production with that of the United States through establishment of a joint production agency."

He told reporters this after a call at the White House to discuss War Production Board chairman, production blueprint for a United Nations victory. He had conferred previously with Donald M. Nelson, war production board chairman, and remarked that "we see very much together" on Anglo-American production problems.

Lyttleton said he had taken up with Mr. Roosevelt "the war on broad lines, and more particularly the thing I've come here to fix up—the integration of British production in the general plan."

"We feel," he added, "that the war doesn't wait, and we want to relate our production not only to the future strategic plan but also to the plan for the next few months."

The projected joint production agency, Lyttleton explained, would analyze the requirements of the strategic plan from both the short and long term points of view, add them all up, and then determine whether they could be met by Anglo-American production facilities.

Inter-related with this problem, he added, is that of adequate shipping.

Red Air Force Pounds Nazis' Bases in Arctic

40 German Warplanes Reported Destroyed in Soviet Assaults.

MOSCOW, June 5.—(AP)—The Red Air Force was declared tonight to be pounding at Germany's Arctic airdromes in a major counterattack on the Nazi air fleet which is trying to cut the mid-night sun supply line from Russia's western allies.

Destruction of at least 40 German aircraft was claimed in the initial stages of the assault.

(Norwegian sources in London said they had learned that the RAF in raids on Trondheim April 29 and 30, had scored direct hits on the German super battleship Tirpitz and the heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper, which for weeks have been considered a grave menace to the Arctic supply route.)

(Although these great warships have been holed up in Trondheim, Anglo-American convoys sailing the frigid route to Murmansk have been continually attacked by German dive bombers, torpedo planes and other aircraft from Nazi Norwegian bases, as well as by U-boats and destroyers.)

Russian dispatches from Murmansk said planes of the northern Red air fleet had conducted two assaults on German airdromes deep in Nazi-occupied territory.

In one attack, 12 German planes were wrecked; in the second, the Red fliers destroyed 25 aircraft which the Germans just had brought north.

Other Russian warplanes fought duels with German aircraft flying to raid Murmansk itself, and in one of these a Soviet fighter was said to have blown up a Junkers with its entire bomb load. The explosion was so great, the dispatches said, that a second Junker was following the first crashed with its crew in Kola gulf.

Kalinin Action Mounts. On the battlefield, action was mounting from the Kalinin sector northwest of Moscow to Leningrad, and the Red army reported it was clearing the Germans from favorable positions and improving its own lines.

With wide expanses of terrain now open for maneuver, the Germans were throwing more and more men, tanks and planes into local encounters—but the Russians, too, were getting strong forces into the field.

Red army scouts on the Kalinin front found number of weakly defended junction points, opening the way to a German trench line which ran through village described as the center of German defenses in one sector.

Military dispatches said shock units penetrated the junction points at night, filtered into the villages and attacked simultaneously from several sides, routing the Germans.

Five German counterattacks were declared repulsed and the Russians mopped up the trench line. One German infantry battalion was reported routed with 400 casualties.

U. S. Jails Lion Tamer

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—(AP)—Fritz Schulz, 35-year-old lion tamer with the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus, was arrested as an enemy alien and sent to the Gloucester (N. J.) detention station of the U. S. Immigration Service, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed today.

Schulz, agents said, came to the United States from Stuttgart, Germany, two and a half years ago. He was arrested yesterday on a presidential warrant after an investigation of several months, the FBI said. The circus came to Philadelphia early this week.

British Hero Cashiered

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—Captain Robert Davies, awarded the George cross in 1940 for removing a time bomb from St. Paul's cathedral, was sentenced today by court-martial to be cashiered from the Army and to serve two years in prison.

The term was reduced later to 18 months by the general commanding officer, London district. Davies was convicted on seven charges of improperly receiving funds from a business firm. He was acquitted on six counts and had pleaded guilty to 14 others, mainly for having issued bad checks.

Queen Rolls 'Good Wood'

SOMEWHERE IN LANARKSHIRE, Scotland, June 5.—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth, touring Scotland with King George, obliged a miner's wife today by taking a turn of lawn bowling. While the King looked on, she threw a bowl which stopped within a yard of the jack, winning a tribute from the bowl's club president.

"You threw a real good wood," he commented.

Eyes That See Not

Floyd Bennett Field is perhaps the most important field the United States Navy possesses. It is close by New York city.

Work was in progress expanding the field. Eight million dollars of the taxpayers' money was being spent on the work.

A strike of 250 electrical workers is holding up the work.

They struck because members of another union also had been hired to do other jobs on the field.

The average citizen of the United States will ask himself whether or not it actually can be true that the leaders of the unions involved are so blind and stupid they cannot see that such a petty action halting work on a vital project is damnable, without a shred of justification, and entirely reprehensible?

WPA and the Rails

We feel that the WPA and the men whom they have hired to do the job of taking up the abandoned streetcar rails and breaking them into swords and shells, should be commended for a good job.

To the average motorist, if there be an average motorist since gas rationing, the time may have seemed long and the work may have been slightly inconvenient. Actually, the work has been done with unusual speed. There has been no waste and no loafing. Georgia has been particularly fortunate in her WPA administrators and this is a good example of it.

There is some sentiment about the passing of the rails. They remind us that the streetcar, like the ruffled grouse and the wild turkey, was on the way out until the war came with more transportation demands. We get all mixed up trying to decide just what our sentiment is when we think of Atlanta's old streetcar rails being fired at the Japs and Germans. We are sure of one thing. We hope they are aimed well.

It would be idle to try to explain to Tokyo what "doodle" means, as so often some nuance is lost in the literal translation.

Pulaski County's Health

It still is a lamentable fact that less than a third of Georgia's counties have health units. It is a pleasing fact that when a county does provide one, the results are gratifying. In a lead editorial the Hawkinsville Dispatch and News reports that a recent clinic conducted by the county unit reveal no new cases of tuberculosis; that a growing number of residents are taking advantage of the free blood tests and that Pulaski county is making progress in conserving its human resources. Citizens of Georgia's counties lacking health units would do well to investigate, request action by their grand juries, and create a demand for a health unit.

War and the Farm

It appears that not only do poor mortals become confused with the war, but that confusion is extending even to the poultry and vegetable kingdom.

The Daily Tifton Gazette reports that a Fitzgerald farmer has been exhibiting a potato through which a sprig of Bermuda grass had grown. The Gazette philosophizes that the amateur gardener has little chance when the grass, tired of choking of the crops, starts eating the vegetables.

In Macon county, J. C. Cox, of the Citizen, discovered that Mrs. S. O. Jones, of Ideal, has a turkey hen which has gone all out on the war effort. The hen has laid over 50 eggs this season and last week, as a sort of extra special effort, produced an enormous egg. When the egg was broken it was discovered that there was a second egg inside the first one. In breaking it, it was found to be a complete egg, yolk and all.

Beginning of a Trend?

The desire of the people of the United States to shake up the high command of the people—the congress of the United States—is indicated in the defeat of Representative Luther Patrick, of Birmingham, by the voters of his district in Alabama.

Patrick sought a fourth term. He began his first in 1936, abandoning for the nonce a career as a radio comedian and rustic poet. That in itself rather indicated the trend of the times in the election of representatives of the people, few of whom then appeared to recognize the number of clowns already in public office in Washington.

Patrick lived up to his record. He voted the party line. He produced enough news to keep before the public, culminating his activities by picketing pickets at the White House last fall. The pickets were crackpots the White House quite sensibly disregarded.

His opponent, a comfortable winner in a run-off election, is John Newsome, a Birmingham businessman making his first bid for public office. By his background he promises a level-headed representation of the people rather than a staged bid for continued nuzzling of the public trough. He represents, one might say, a return to sanity on the part of the electorate of the people of the Birmingham district.

Newsome's election could be a forerunner of an avalanche to come. The sorry spectacle of so many of the members of congress stands in contrast to the honesty and the fortitude of the men of the fighting forces, of the willingness to sacrifice of the man-in-the-street of the proud bravery of the mothers and fathers of those who already have died for a nation that so carelessly has voted into office those who make a mockery of the solemn and sovereign duties of congressmen.

The people of the nation have done with those who seek to feast at the patronage trough, who quest for personal gain at public cost, who claim efficiency and economy through dictatorship and juggling of public finances.

In amusing New Jersey, a beer van ran over a citizen's head with no evident ill effect. It's the fifth or sixth van that gets you.

Goudy's "30"

Every person to whom type is more than a splash of ink on a printed page must have felt a twinge of deepest regret when they read that Frederic William Goudy is designing "Goudy 30."

Even though it seldom is used today, the numerals "30" spell finality to newspapermen. It is, now more than ever, the symbol of the absolute end.

And so, it is difficult for those who know, and, knowing, admire the type faces for their craftsmanship and beauty to realize that the career of the man whose imprint on modern printing will live through centuries is coming to an end.

Through three decades Goudy has designed and sent forth with their message 113 type faces. His type has shaped the bodies of the newspapers tossed so casually to your porch in the mornings, it has drawn your eye to the advertisements in which the commercial lifeblood of the nation finds its arteries, it has shouted warnings where warnings are necessary. It has, more than that, put substance to the history of the rise of a great nation to full stature among the nations of the world.

But to all men who fashion with their hands, and their minds and their hearts the day comes when they must sign "30." Few ever can sign it in such a magnificent fashion.

Georgia Editors Say:

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?

(The Moultrie Observer.)

The people want higher taxes. Strange things are happening in this awful war. People are saying and doing things they have never said or done before. The man in the street is not what he used to be. The strangest thing of all is that the people are asking for higher taxes. We have never seen it like that before. We are habitual tax dodgers. We resist when taxes are lowered. We yell when they go up, but now we are told that the taxpayers are asking that more stripes shall be laid upon them. We learn from no less an authority than Dr. Gallup, who is nosing around all of the time with his poll-takers finding out what the people are thinking. He unearthed a mare's nest when he found out that the people wanted more taxes. Close examination and reading between the lines develops the fact that there is a joker in this deck. A Negro in this woodpile. Dr. Gallup, in taking his poll, decided that he would sound out the leading citizens of the community. It will be necessary for you to stop here for a moment and meditate. You will have to figure out for yourself who the leading citizens of the communities are. After you have settled that to your satisfaction, proceed with us. The kind of taxes that are being desired at this time are taxes on small incomes. The leading citizens want tax exemptions lowered. Too much is being taken out for the little wife. Also there is a desire that there shall be lowered exemptions for single men. Drop it down from $750 to $500. Now you will have to stop and meditate some more. Figure it out who is profiting by the $750 exemption and who it is that will pay to get some more money for Uncle Sam by lowering the exemption to $500. After you get that analyzed you may see what started the cry for more taxes. The light will come to you when you find out that it is the leading citizen who is a big taxpayer and doesn't get much gravy out of exemptions, who wants the little taxpayer to pay more taxes. That is pretty easy. To put it in a simpler form, we do want more taxes but it is the other fellow we want to pay the taxes. The reason we want the other fellow taxed is that we want some of the burden shifted from our own shoulders. Hurry up with more taxes for the other fellow.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

INVASION OF BRITAIN WASHINGTON, June 5.—In some military circles there is a disposition to feel that the intensified bombing raids the British have launched against German industrial centers may change the whole course of the war this summer.

Continuation of the attacks on the gigantic scale in which they have been conducted recently, it is said, may force Hitler to revise his plans completely and make an all-out attempt to invade England before seeking to wind up the Russian campaign.

The idea is not as far-fetched as it may sound. Enthusiastic American airmen say that the effect of the British raids has been to open up a new front in the west far more threatening to Hitler than anything he has encountered in Russia.

As worked out by the German high command during the winter months, Hitler's plans are presumed to have called for an all-out offensive against Russia this spring or summer. Recent speech to the German people, he attributed last fall's failure to the late start made by the Nazis in the 1941 drive, which got under way June 22. The implication was that the 1942 offensive would begin much earlier. But it is June already and he has moved in only one small sector. Obviously something has developed to hold Hitler up. It may have been the early comprehensive raids the British made on Lubek and Rostock, which were forerunners of the devastating assault leveled during the past few days on Cologne and Essen. It may have been the growing concentration of American forces in the British Isles, with the new threat of British-American collaboration in opening up a second European front.

Whatever it was, something apparently has caused the Fuehrer to halt in his tracks. He is operating behind the presumed schedule.

RED RESISTANCE The surprisingly strong resistance put up by the Red army has made it amply clear to military men that Hitler's only chance of winning this summer in the east is by throwing every ounce of strength he can muster into the battle—both in the air and on the ground. Even under those circumstances it is doubtful if he would be able to wipe out the Russian army. Nothing short of that effort would have any chance to succeed.

But he can't do this without leaving his western flank open. If he diverts his entire air force to the Russian front, the British have shown themselves capable of making a shambles of all of his principal industrial cities—the centers of essential war production. Four of the big ones, practically destroyed already.

Once the Russian offensive is really launched, the British, reinforced by the American air force which will soon be ready to strike, will simply blast German cities apart, one by one. There is no longer any question as to the ability of the British and ourselves to do this. The devastation of Cologne and Essen is proof positive.

And so, as some of our military experts profess to see it, Hitler, facing this new threat from the air, will not dare tie up his hands in Russia further until steps are taken to remove the danger in his rear. He could do this in only one way—order the long-threatened invasion attempt on England while leaving a defensive force to hold the Russians in check on the eastern front.

On the same thesis, also, Hitler must realize that air bases in Britain are to constitute the main starting points of the future assault. The Allies plan to make against German cities. What happened to Cologne and Essen is only a sample of the blows we intend to deal out later when the huge American plane production program permits.

BEST TIME If the British invasion is ever to be attempted, therefore, now is a better time than the Germans are likely to be offered in the future.

It is all very far-fetched, in a way, but not beyond the realm of possibility, according to the military spokesmen. The invasion, something mysterious about Hitler's plans for the past two months. Both the Kerch operation and the minor offensive launched by the Germans in Libya are believed to have been feints to conceal more sinister moves. The British invasion attempt may be in the offing.

Hitler is no fool and must realize the careful preparations we are making for his undoing. He must realize, also, that by next year our armed forces and equipment will have reached such proportions that he can never expect complete victory. Time, consequently, is a thing of the greatest importance to him. He must move this year, or never, it would seem.

If the highly speculative British invasion should be attempted this summer, it will mark the decisive battle of the war. Failing in that, Hitler would be doomed. His days thereafter would be numbered. But the battle itself would have certain gains as the bloodiest conflagration in all the long history of wars—an awe-inspiring spectacle written in red.

Editor, Constitution: I was born and "raised" on a farm in Calhoun county, Alabama, and my first real newspaper reading was reading the Weekly Atlanta Constitution. Then the Tri-Weekly, then the Daily for a long time. I moved to Oklahoma in 1901 and since that time I have not seen a great many copies of The Constitution.

For the past several weeks my mind has been wandering back to the early days of my acquaintance with The Constitution. How my mother—my father died when I was small—my brothers and myself enjoyed so very much the special features of The Constitution. Bill Arp, Betsy Hamilton, Sarge Plunket, Montgomery M. Folsom and that wonderful and delightful column of Frank L. Stanton. One of the most enjoyable features for my mother was the weekly sermon of Rev. T. De Witt Talmadge. Of course there were other features that I do not recall just at the moment which were good.

I have also been thinking of some of the men who represented Georgia in congress in those years. Joseph E. Brown, John B. Gordon and Augustus O. Bacon in the senate. Charles F. Crisp, Henry G. Turner, Judge Blount, Judge W. H. Barnes (I think that is correct), and others whose names I cannot recall just now.

I also remember how Clark Howell won his "spurs" as a political convention reporter, in his report of the Republican convention which was held in Chicago, Ill., in 1888. Some of the headlines of his report, as I now recall them, were as follows:

Chicago's Convention Cutely Checked
Blaine's Boom Badly Busted
Sherman's Seeming Small Security
Harrison Holds High Hand

I do not remember any others, and as it is now 54 years since that event occurred, I may have some of the above wrong. I know that you are too busy to enjoy reading this but, if you are a young man reading it, do not let the "moon" of an old man, for as I am now, you will be sooner than you think.

My heart is hungering and hankering for The Constitution again. W. H. L. CARRUTH.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Padway NEW YORK, June 5.—Lest anyone forget the interesting personality of Joe Padway, the general counsel of AFL, and general counsel, during their thieving career, of the filthy racket disguised as a union conducted by George Browne and Willie Bioff, I should like to relate the latest feat of this prosperous altruist, who recently had the effrontery to appear before the congressional representatives of the American people and tell them what laws they might pass and what laws he would not stand for.

Mr. Padway, born in England, became a pioneer in the profitable exploitation of the union movement in Milwaukee and landed in Washington with a rich practice as general counsel for seven international unions of the AFL and special counsel for others. As general counsel of the AFL, he was the attorney general of that rich and powerful subgovernment of the American people and sat in cabinet meetings of the AFL along with his client, the notorious underworld thief and racketeer, George Browne. He also collaborated in bargaining negotiations with Willie Bioff, M. P., or master of prostitutes, whose background as an old brothel keeper was notorious throughout the union movement. He also represented the general counsel, the bartenders' union, which, in Miami, was the private racket of Al Capone's brother-in-law, Danny Coughlin, and, in Chicago, was the racket of another group of the Capone mob.

Seven Unions George Scallise, of the building service racket, also, like Bioff, an old M. P., paid Padway $1,000 to "revise his constitution" and Padway did it. He accepted the application for a presidential pardon not long before Scallise was publicly shown to be a front man for still another group of the Capone mob and sentenced to Sing Sing.

Among the seven international unions which provide Padway with the means for living the more abundant life is the teamsters' international, with headquarters in Indianapolis, whose president is that fine and pious elder statesman of the AFL, Mr. Dan Tobin, a member of the AFL since 1901 and executive council. Notwithstanding his piety, and well knowing Browne's character, Mr. Tobin nevertheless forgot to throw the crook out of the cabinet because he placed political unity within the council above decency and the honest treatment of the rank and file workers.

Like William Green, Tobin was content to let politics take her course with the result that publicity and United States Attorney Mathias Corrae, of New York, had to remove Browne from the necks of helpless workers. Tobin is a fine American with the reservation that he does not trust the public courts and has denounced as a lower form of vermin than the unspeakable scab any member, however sorely oppressed, who dares to exercise his American right to appeal to the courts for justice. Although Mr. Padway, as a lawyer, is an officer of the court, he finds it within his ethics to represent this organization, whose president has expressed this preference for private union courts which may be conducted by racketeers acting in role of judge, jury and defendant.

Tobin In Cincinnati, of late, a group of rebellious members of 11 local teamsters' unions, subsidiaries of Mr. Tobin's international, and having 10,000 members, brought suit and grave charges against Mr. Brocky Farrell, who had been sent in as trustee by Mr. Tobin following some trouble many years ago. A trustee in such cases occupies a position similar to that of Adolf Hitler's governor general in Poland or Czechoslovakia. He is set over the rank and file without their vote or consent and is accountable only to the international headquarters. Indeed, in the teamsters' union there is a constitutional question whether even Mr. Tobin, having once named a trustee, may remove him or call him to account. The Cincinnati rebels charged that Mr. Farrell was a dictator, that he had not properly accounted for vast sums of union money and, most heinous of all sins, that he had authorized numbers of his subjects to cross the picket lines of other unions.

For a few terrible days it appeared that the intimate affairs of this group of Mr. Tobin's subjects might be exposed to the public courts so Mr. Padway rushed to Cincinnati and saved the day. The suit and the charges were abjectly withdrawn and elections were ordered, but only with a stipulation by Mr. Padway that the rebel factioneers refrain from impugning the character of Mr. Farrell or his representatives with reminiscences or allegations, however true.

For these brief but talented services the court allowed Mr. Padway $5,000, payable out of the earnings of the local workers who were gagged by his insistence that a man so fine as Brocky Farrell, himself grown wealthy with the years, be spared such pain of soul as might be caused by public scrutiny of his conduct.

Waccamaw Green are the banks where flows this great river. Gentle the twilight that is veiling its face. Golden the glow from nature the giver. That lights the loved Waccamaw with time-hallowed grace. Faithless faith its depths are enfolding. Thoughts that are sacred sweep with its tide. Close in its bosom its memories holding. Perfumed with love these waters abide. Gently, O gently, I can but remember. As I look down the years that are gone. The songs that have moved to a whitening December. The days that dimmed darkly from fading December. Bear to thy harbor, O River of Silence. Take to the sea, O River of Dreams. All of the heartaches, all of the longings. Out where the hope of eternity gleams. MAUDE WADDELL.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

POLITICAL EVENTS Georgia's state executive committee meets today to fix the closing entry date for the state's September primaries. It is to be hoped the committee will make a sincere and honest effort to get ballots to the men from Georgia now in the armed services. The government would co-operate and the job would not be too difficult.

The closing date is not really important except for the fact a late date would make it almost impossible to get ballots to the men. Sending them to Ireland is a matter of less than 24 hours insofar as actual transportation from this country to Ireland is concerned. To Australia would take not much longer. A really sincere, patriotic job can be done, or it can be neglected and lost.

Closing dates do not apply to the incumbent, but the Governor has announced he will make his initial campaign speech on July 4, at Moultrie.

He may be expected to say nothing about politics until that date; to make no replies to any attacks on his record or his administration; to ignore the fact he has hired as many, or more state employees than did former Governor E. D. Rivers. There can be no honesty until he makes himself a part of it and this he does not now choose to do.

He does not choose to do so because it is good politics to keep quiet. The man in office, the man with the organization, has a definite idea of his strength. He knows he and his organization can muster the votes there on the day of the voting. Hence, when there is any other distraction, the man in office keeps quiet as long as he can and hopes for a short rest of two months. Until July it will be up to his opponents to try and attract attention. That is difficult, with the war as the chief show. No one yet has accused the Governor of being a poor politician. His silence is good politics.

MR. ROBERTS Entry of Mr. Columbus Roberts will be forthcoming this month, according to the present plans of the former secretary of agriculture. Whether the Governor's announcement of July 4 as his campaign start will influence him to a later date won't be answered for a few days.

The point is, Mr. Roberts will be a candidate. He has resisted delegations of friends and former supporters and he also has put the requests of members of his family. He believes he has a chance to win. He has the money and does not have to go seeking it. Mr. Roberts is not a good candidate. He does not hold people well with his speeches and he does not have the political gift of remembering faces and names.

Nevertheless, he privately believes the people resent the Talmadge administration; that the people resent some of the "Palace Guard" in positions of prominence, and that the people will want a businessman.

He believes he is the stronger of the anti-Talmadge candidates despite the fact many of his supporters of two years ago have informed him they cannot support him in this race.

The Talmadge faction, sure in the knowledge that the Columbus businessman will enter, are gleefully declaring that Santa Claus does come more than once a year. This time he will arrive from Columbus in June.

They believe that any lingering doubt as to the election of their man will be removed by the splitting of the anti-Talmadge vote by Mr. Ellis Arnall and Mr. Roberts.

MR. ARNALL'S RACE Mr. Ellis Arnall has been campaigning for about two months. He has something neither of the others have—that is a tremendous store of strength and energy.

He can stand the strain of making six, eight and 10 speeches and talks each day. The others cannot. Governor Talmadge's health is considerably better than it was at the time of the last campaign, but he will campaign sparingly, hitting the high points, and letting the organization do the spade work and the sweating.

The next jobs are for four years and the boys will be asked to do considerable, perspiring, chore work to be in line. Mr. Roberts is not physically up to the severe demands of a day-to-day campaign.

Mr. Arnall can quite literally shell the woods, speaking and shaking hands in small towns and large. He will have to do this to offset the organization work by the Talmadge faction. He has the advantage of having been first in the field and it is a fact that many of Mr. Roberts' supporters of two years ago have given him their support.

There is no use denying the fact there is deep gloom in the various camps allied against the Governor. They realize the import of the two men opposing the Governor as well as does the Governor's group which so gleefully is hailing the arrival of a Santa Claus.

There will be an effort to get one of them out. You may be sure that before July has waxed and waned there will be some idea of the relative strength of Mr. Arnall and Mr. Roberts and the effort then will be intensified to get one of them out. There again the advantage may rest with Mr. Arnall because of his early start and the fact he was able to take over some of the Roberts organization of the previous campaign.

It will be an interesting summer. As usual.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise: I think some well-meaning simpleton or sly servant of evil has been confusing your mind. You ask whether any war is ever right, and you would have no doubt about it if your native common sense hadn't been muddled by propaganda.

There is one kind of war that is always right. God gave us the instinct of self-preservation, and it isn't reasonable to suppose He gave us anything without expecting us to use it.

There is only one thing that men must fight to get and fight to keep. All other wars are unnecessary and wrong.

Men fight to get markets, but they could win them more easily by offering better goods for less money. They fight for concessions and raw materials which they could buy at a fraction of the cost of war.

They fight to advance their philosophy or religion, but they could do it more effectively by sinner and gentler methods. The wars are fought for loot, or to impose the will of the strong on the weak, and therefore all are evil—with this one exception.

Free men must fight to preserve their freedom, and those who have lost their freedom must fight to regain it.

The tyrant conqueror is incapable of conceiving or comprehending any idea that would conflict with his mastery. Neither reason nor pleadings can move him. He is unable to understand any language except that of force.

Tyrant and conqueror gave him his power, and he cannot change or stop. His followers share his power and the glory of winning, and they too become tyrants. Their feeling of superiority is a product of force, and they also can understand no language but that of force.

That is why other people must fight to keep their freedom or win it back. There is no other way. In dealing with a homicidal maniac or a tiger or any creature that has no capacity for reason or mercy or justice, one must rely on force. And tyrant conquerors can be stopped only by a force superior to theirs.

The right to survive is not merely the right to survive in a cage, but the right to live normally—and normal life is free. It is right to fight for freedom, and necessity makes it righteous to destroy the tyrants who would enslave us.

Love, DAD.

Where Do They Go?

The new telephone directory is out, fatter than before.

A great stack of them came to this newspaper plant a few days ago and were distributed around. One, I assume, for each extension or other instrument.

I have been trying to lay a bet or two on how long it will be until the number is reduced to that one chained to a desk across the room.

Many's the time I've wondered what becomes of telephone books. Their literary value is not great. The man who has a 'phone at home got a book and one should be enough. Unless his baby likes to chew up phone directories.

We had one of the old books on a desk near ours until a few weeks ago, when it followed its predecessors to that mysterious bourne to which they retire. I miss it. On my part, I'd swap the new one for it. Because frequently used numbers had been marked with a little pencil check mark in the middle of a long list of Smiths or under U. S.—there are hundreds of the latter.

Now with the new book, I must start all over on check marks. Which seems hardly worth while. By the time I'd fixed it up right it would vanish.

I couldn't help overhearing a conversation in a store yesterday. An old lady—or nearly old—desired to purchase a globe for her little nephew, who was trying to keep up with the war news.

"Here's a pretty one," she said, pointing out an 18-inch globe in many colors. "How much is that?"

The salesman switched on an electric lamp inside the globe

Can't go to church for lack of tires and gas? That's too bad. But nothing but a flood or a blizzard will keep Mrs. Harriott Marion Orchard from attending the service at the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation in West End tomorrow—at 7:30 a. m., which is mighty early under war time.

The Rev. Theodore Morrison, the rector, told me about her.

"She is 94 years old," he said. "She came to Atlanta in 1900, became affiliated with this church and has rarely missed a Sunday service, regardless of weather. Much of the time she walks, and it's quite a distance."

The service tomorrow morning will be the nature of a special tribute to Mrs. Orchard.

Solons Demand Need Be Shown For Rationing

100 Congressmen Object to Methods Used by Henderson.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and his ranking aides dug into the twin problems of rubber and gasoline today, while a hundred house members at a boisterous meeting asserted their opposition to gasoline rationing unless shown "facts" to prove its necessity.

No decisions were reached at the White House session, its participants said as they left, but one of them, Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, intimated that Mr. Roosevelt would issue a statement in a few days.

The hundred congressmen adopted a resolution opposing nationwide rationing after hearing speeches criticizing the government for "bureaucratic methods" and "dictatorial policies," and objecting to the rationing methods used by Leon Henderson, price control administrator.

The resolution was proposed by Representatives Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, and Gossett, Democrat, Texas, and was accepted after revision to include a statement that the meeting favored any necessary war sacrifices. Representative Kleberg, Democrat, Texas, was authorized to appoint a five-man committee to determine what steps are necessary.

Kleberg selected Representatives Scrugham, Democrat, Nevada; Houston, Democrat, Kansas; Lea, Democrat, California; Fogarty, Democrat, Rhode Island; Holmes, Republican, Massachusetts; Brown, Republican, Ohio, and Hope, Republican, Kansas. This group asked the White House for an appointment with President Roosevelt Monday or Tuesday.

Meantime, there were other capitol developments bearing on the situation: Chairman Somers, Democrat, New York, asserted in a statement that the House Coinage Committee had received "shocking revelations" indicating the "big four" rubber companies had gained control of the rubber program and were impeding the war effort. His committee, he added, would investigate the situation. He did not name the "big four."

At a senate committee hearing, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, charged the War Production Board had been "absolutely derelict" in its duty to plan for alcohol production. The senate group, an agriculture subcommittee, is investigating the question of making rubber from farm products by an alcohol process.

Earlier Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, said in a letter to Representative White, Democrat, Idaho, that there was no hope that rubber would become available for making tires for civilian owned cars for several years, and called for rationing the "most practicable way to conserve rubber."

At his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not yet in a position to clarify the gasoline situation.

Rural Highway Travel Cut 55-65 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Gasoline rationing has cut rural highway travel in eastern states by 55 to 65 per cent compared with a year ago, the Public Roads Administration estimated today on the basis of reports from Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, North Carolina and South Carolina.

On the other hand, April motor fuel tax receipts in 29 states scattered throughout the country indicated that gasoline consumption still was about 95 per cent as great as a year ago. A spokesman explained that while rural travel over the entire country had declined, urban traffic had increased.

Ceilings Cover Cooler Rentals

With summer upon them, regional OPA officials here moved yesterday to clarify the ice water situation by announcing that rental charges for electric water coolers are governed by the general maximum price regulation.

Leases or rentals of this type, a ruling said, are included in the definition of "sale" in the regulation.

Another announcement regarding beverages was that fruit wines manufactured from grapes, blackberries and grapes are covered.

Regarding milk prices, it was explained that sale of milk in cartons during March, the determining level, at a higher price than was charged for bottled milk does not permit the raising of prices for the latter to the carton level now.

Surplus Marketing Unit To Buy Georgia Onions

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Representative Peterson, Democrat, Georgia, announced today that the Surplus Marketing Administration would begin the purchase of onions in Georgia in order to bolster prices.

Initial purchases will be made at the market in Toombs county. The action of the Surplus Marketing Administration was taken at the request of Peterson and Representative Pace, Democrat, Georgia. Peterson said the action was expected to have considerable effect in stabilizing onion prices in the state which had sagged recently on account of a bumper crop in Georgia and other onion production states.

Edward H. Dennison, of the SMA, with an office at Vidalia, Ga., has been assigned to Toombs county to direct the onion purchases.

Roosevelt Signs New War Decrees

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—The United States went to war officially today with Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania when President Roosevelt signed a congressional resolution passed by both houses yesterday.

The President affixed his signature at approximately 4:40 p. m., eastern war time. He asked congress Tuesday to declare war on the three countries, which he said were engaged in military activities against the United Nations and were planning an extension of these activities.

Puerto Rico May Use Planes To Bring Food

MIAMI, Fla., June 5.—(AP)—Puerto Rican officials are considering the use of airplanes to import food to the island, hit by a shipping shortage, Harry A. Kenning, of the American Red Cross, said today.

Kenning, representative for Florida and Georgia, returned from Puerto Rico where he set up civilian defense first aid classes. He declared the pinch brought on by submarine activities and diversion of shipping to war uses made fresh meats and potatoes especially scarce.

House Denies CCC Funds To Continue

If Approved by Senate Action Will Abolish Agency.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Born of the depression nine years ago, the Civilian Conservation Corps was denied funds to carry on its work today as the house withstood strong administration pressure for wartime continuance of the organization on a semi-military basis.

The house voted, by tellers' count of 158 to 121, against a motion which would have added a $75,818,000 allotment for the CCC to a $1,058,451,660 supply bill for several agencies, including the Labor Department and social security board.

Late in the day the house passed the $1,058,451,660 bill and sent it to the senate after rejecting, by a voice vote, Representative Taber's, Republican, New York, motion to send the measure back to committee.

If upheld by the senate, the vote on the CCC fund—would write finis—probably for at least the duration of the war—to the triple "C," which since its creation in 1933 has cost about $3,000,000,000. Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, author of the motion to restore the allotment which had been eliminated from the supply bill in the appropriations committee by a three-vote margin, obtained passage of a $500,000 appropriation to liquidate the corps.

After the vote on the CCC, the house rejected, 118 to 62, a proposal to eliminate all but $8,320,000 from a $58,049,000 item for the National Youth Administration. Representative Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, who made the motion, asserted the NYA work largely duplicated that of the Office of Education.

Seven Convicts Escape From Camp

FOLKSTON, Ga., June 5.—(AP)—Seven convicts who fled from the prison camp here in a truck Wednesday after overpowering guards, remained at liberty today.

The seven included Leo McIntosh, serving a life term for murder from Bibb county, who has made eight previous escapes. I. N. Carter, camp guard, reported. Carter listed the others as Breverton Ray, serving four years for a Coffee county robbery; Robert Sasser, 10 years, Glynn, burglary; J. F. Langford, 8 years, Fulton, burglary; S. T. Simmons, 5 years, Habersham county, robbery; William Gilpin, 10 years, Meriwether, burglary, and Julius Bleckley, 3 years, misdemeanor charges, from Rabun county.

Child Is Killed At Milledgeville

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 5.—(AP)—Milledgeville's safety record, over two years without a fatal traffic death within the city limits, was broken Thursday with the death of one child and serious injury to another when they were struck by a truck while returning home from blackberry picking.

Ione Leverette, 4, was instantly killed and Harold Gladin, 6, is in a local hospital with serious injuries. Police were reported holding the driver of the one and one-half ton death truck in the Baldwin county jail.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

THE DAY OF SUFFERING.

Sunday's lesson, Mark 15:33-34 and Luke 23:33-34 and John 19:25-30, continues the story, begun in last Sunday's lesson, of Friday of Crucifixion Week, the Day of Suffering. The golden text: "He was wounded for our transgressions. He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed." Isaiah 53:5.

Last Sunday's lesson involved the scene of the Garden of Gethsemane and the mock trials. This Sunday's lesson deals with the Crucifixion. At about 9 o'clock on Friday morning, Jesus, attended by the executioners, and accompanied by His two fellow victims, followed by a great throng of curious on-lookers, "went out, bearing the cross for Himself." We are told that the cross probably weighed about 150 pounds. Worn by the sleepless night and the scourging imposed upon Him during the mock trials, Jesus was not physically able to bear His cross to its destination on Golgotha's hill. When He could bear the cross no further, one Simon, a Cyrenian, bore the cross for Jesus. I believe every Christian will look forward to the happy day in Heaven when we hope to thank Simon for what he did that day for our blessed Lord.

For six hours, the Son of God suffered upon the cross on Calvary, fulfilling the Divine plan of redemption in which He took upon Himself, the Just for the unjust, the iniquities of all who will trust Him as Saviour and Redeemer. And then, He "gave up the ghost." Before sunset His body was taken down from the cross by Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea, and reverently embalmed and buried in Joseph's new tomb in his garden.

"Christ died for our sins." That is the clear and final answer to the ghastly scene on Golgotha's hill that Black Friday. In that transaction we see Christ crucified, Christ challenged, Christ compassionate, Christ forsaken, Christ redeeming. He was the submissive Christ, the sacrificial Christ, the sovereign Christ, the suffering Christ, the scorned Christ, the saving Christ, the sufficient Christ.

The seven words spoken from the cross will be studied again in connection with this lesson. Someone has described these sayings of Jesus as follows: The word of prayer, the word of promise, the word of protection, the word of loneliness, the word of anguish, the word of consummation, and the word of committal.

The sufferings of Christ on the cross were vicarious. Therein He made atonement available to any and every sinner who will believe on Him. He willingly became our substitute, that He might bring us to God. "There is none other Name given among men whereby we may be saved." Selah.

Jurors Ponder Evidence in Thomas Case

No Verdict Returned in Alleged Poisoning at Clarksville.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. CLARKSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—Eleven jurors late today continued to study the evidence in the case of Mrs. Flossie Thomas, charged with poisoning her husband, William Baker, husband of her rival for her own husband's love.

It was reported this afternoon the jury stood 9 to 2, with no indication as to what kind of verdict they favored.

They began study of the case early this morning, and late today nearness to a verdict was not indicated.

Judge Tom S. Candler, of the northeastern circuit, dismissed all other jurors and at the completion of the Thomas trial, court will be adjourned for this term.

Trial of Mrs. Thomas opened Wednesday, the first day being consumed in selecting a jury, 11 serving on this case, by consent of both sides. Testimony highlight was given by Grace Baker, 16-year-old daughter of the dead man, who told the court that she saw the defendant, Mrs. Thomas, give headache powders to her father prior to the Bakers' trip to Arizona last fall.

Mrs. Thomas in an unsworn statement to the jury denied she was responsible for the death of Baker and said she had aided authorities of the law "in every way that I could to solve this mystery."

She read the prepared statement in which she stated she had always felt that Australia Baker (Baker's wife and her alleged rival) had a motive for getting rid of her husband.

The Habersham grand jury in March indicted Mrs. Thomas, 51-year-old former school teacher, on a charge that she poisoned her husband of the woman whom she allegedly was jealous of in connection with her own husband's affections.

A partially burned letter found last fall, which gave directions on administering poison doses, caused the body of Baker to be exhumed and examined, whereupon it was alleged was found.

The senate had voted a minimum pay of $42 and the house $50. The present pay is $21 for the first four months, then it goes to $30.

First class privates and corresponding naval ratings under the compromise would receive $52 a month compared with a senate-approved rate of $48 and a house-approved $54.

The conference agreement, reached speedily after two unheated meetings during the day, will come up first in the senate on Monday.

Sees Adoption. Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, co-author of the legislation, predicted senate adoption of the compromise. But Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, an advocate of $50, said he would fight to defeat it.

If rejected, it probably would be returned to conference with instructions to accept the house rate of $50. The house approved the latter figure in passing the bill in the first place. It did so by almost a 10-to-1 vote again in rejecting a conference report proposing $42.

The conferees not only compromised on $46 today, but agreed to make the increases operative as of June 1 last. The original bill provided that the increases should become effective in the first calendar month after the legislation was enacted.

Seven Present. Of the five members from each chamber on the committee, only three senators and four representatives were present at today's two sessions, at the first of which the senators proposed the compromise, with the agreement coming at the second.

The three senators, however, constituted a quorum under the rules, thus making their proposal and subsequent action legal, according to Senator Johnson, Republican, Vermont. Others present were Senators Johnson and Guernsey, Republican, South Dakota, and Representatives Thompson, Democrat, Texas; Harter, Democrat, Ohio; Andrews, Republican, New York; and Arends, Republican, Illinois.

Absentees were Senators Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, and Hill, Democrat, Alabama, and Representative May, Democrat, Kentucky.

Members said the three were out of the city and it was not known whether they would return in time to record their attitudes before the report comes up in the senate.

CLASS SURVEY. MOULTRIE, Ga., June 5.—Only 11 members of the Moultrie High school graduating class of 201 have no definite plans for their future, a survey of the graduates revealed today. The farms will get the largest number, since 65 admit they plan to stay on the farm, and 18 will return to high school for further study.

as he beamed at his visitors and said: "After July 4, you can ask me all the political questions you want to."

Then he turned to his executive secretary: "Moby, invite every member of the legislature to Moultrie on July 4."

The Governor mopped his brow as he admitted he had other things to think about now besides the heavy pressure of the hot weather. "But, he added, 'I'm not talking until July 4. I'll tell you plenty then.'"

Virtual Admission. The Governor's virtual admission he intends to announce for re-election puts three men in the race, Ellis Arnall, the youthful attorney general of Georgia, has been outspoken about wanting the job. In fact, Arnall has been tossing oratory around the county schoolhouses and over the airwaves of the state for several months. His headquarters is open at a downtown hotel and he's hitchhiking around the state, working up to the furious pitch he expects to reach in Newnan on July 4, in opposition to the Talmadge blast in south Georgia.

Down in Columbus, Ga., Columbus Roberts, former commissioner of agriculture and a well-known dairy farmer and businessman of the Muskeget area, has been poised on the verge for weeks.

Every Tuesday or Wednesday for the last six or seven weeks, the word has spiraled around Georgia in a miniature cyclone: "Columbus Roberts is going to announce Saturday night. His speech is all written. He has bought the radio time. He has his advertising campaign all worked out."

But every Saturday night, no Roberts—just Arnall accusing Talmadge of indirect fratriciding with the Japs, subjecting the school teachers to slow starvation and other things. Arnall really has been throwing things around down in the basement.

Roberts won't talk, but everybody knows he's going to be in there. The announcement is due this month.

Dodges Issue. Talmadge has been dodging the issue, indicating by inference only that his mind was all made up about the best way to win this year's primary—he had it all about to slip his trousers on at the last moment and win in a dignified walk.

The Governor has been hoping for all sorts of opposition. He'd like to see Arnall and Roberts and anybody else in there to split the vote against him. They say he leaves his bedroom door open at nights and dreams of new candidates floating in and nesting around the ceiling.

This year's primary—September 9—comes, as usual, in the midst of the cotton picking, if any cotton pickers can be found around Georgia this fall. The boys who "think it out" are expecting a light vote—"gasoline rationing, no tires, you know."

Candidates will have difficulty with federal restrictions getting the rural voters to the polls, say the dopesters. The average trip to the poll in the country is conceded to be about eight or 10 miles.

Today at noon the Democratic State Executive Committee meets and the final date for entrants in the primary will be fixed.

That date, it is rumored, will be around July 4.

HOW TO HOOD A FALCON—Peering indignantly down at E. E. Whitaker and Harold Martin is a falco sparverius, or sparrow hawk, which took possession of Whitaker's office at the Fox theater yesterday. Whitaker is sprinkling the salt, while Martin is trying to "hood" the midget falcon with a handkerchief. It didn't work and the Rev. Dr. Wallace Rogers, bird authority, had to be called in to make the capture.

Youth Willing To 'Take the Rap' 'Stuffed' Bird Nips Startled Movie Man

A 16-year-old boy, who was brought up in a family circle of policemen, confessed to a robbery and was going to "take the rap" rather than "squeal" on a companion, city detectives reported yesterday.

Billy Hornsby, 16, of 319 Wellington street, S. W., was arrested with a companion, 14, whose name is withheld because of his age, after a chase by R. B. Jett and his son, J. O. Jett, following the alleged robbery on Stokes avenue in West End late Thursday night, the police reported.

Jett and his son, according to police, found Wallace Howell, 13-year-old Adamsville youth, unconscious beside his bicycle, and saw two youngsters running toward West View cemetery. The Jett's circled the cemetery in an automobile and stopped the boys, the police report said, holding them until policemen arrived.

Grandson of Officer. Hornsby, who is the grandson of City Patrolman A. D. Hornsby and nephew of County Patrolman Coot Hornsby, according to police, confessed to the robbery of $1 from the bicyclist.

Hornsby was listed on a charge of suspicion of robbery and yesterday bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond.

Later, however, City Detectives W. M. Calloway and R. E. Little arrested William M. (Billy) Bruce, 19, of 169 Gordon street, S. W., on a charge of suspicion of robbery and reported that he had confessed beating the Howell boy and taking the money.

Confronted with Bruce's confession, Hornsby said "he didn't want to squeal" and then admitted he had nothing to do with the robbery.

"I was going ahead and take the rap," detectives quoted Hornsby, son of Tom Hornsby, as saying. "But now the only rap I'll take is in the seat of the pants."

Remarkable detectives: "He's just been reading too many detective stories."

with ornithologic glee. "Head, bluish ash, with reddish patch on sides and nape; back, rufous; wings, bluish and black in bars; tail, tawny, with black band and tipped with white; below, buffish and tawny."

"Falco sparverius beyond the shadow of a doubt," he continued. "Commonly known as the sparrow hawk. Also called rusty-crowned falcon, American kestrel, mouse hawk and killy hawk."

He began moving toward the bird, warily. "Habitat, Canada to Paraguay and west to the Rocky mountains," he went on, reaching up a careful hand.

"A member of the falcon family, of which the peregrine, or duck hawk, is a fine example. Strikes his prey from above like all true falcons. Prefers grasshoppers and field mice but will prey upon small birds if hungry."

He pounced quickly, like a falcon. "A fine specimen," he said, stroking the bird's head. "Carries his prey back to the same place where he caught it. The English call it the plucking stone."

He moved toward the door. "Can also be identified by its graceful, darting flight, and by its distinctive cry of triumph when it strikes. Let's see, now, what is that call—?"

"Could it be 'killee-killee-killee'?" inquired Whitaker. "That's it. That's it," said the doctor, beaming happily. "How did you know?"

"You'll find out," said Whitaker, ominously.

Mrs. Saylor, Of Barnsley Gardens, Dies

Succumbs in Rome, Ending Her Life of Tragedies.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ADAIRSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—Death today in a Rome hospital brought to a close the tragic life of Mrs. Adelaide Baltzelle Saylor, 78, mistress of Barnsley Gardens, once a palatial estate near here.

Mrs. Saylor had known one tragedy after another from early childhood.

The granddaughter of Godfrey Barnsley, an Englishman who amassed a fortune as a cotton broker, Mrs. Saylor lived to see the palatial home which her grandfather almost completed go to ruin, and also saw the many millions of dollars her grandfather made by transporting and selling cotton in England dwindle through one misfortune after another, until today only a few rare pieces of antique furniture, the crumbling walls of the palatial mansion, and the 3,000-acre plantation, and it heavily mortgaged, remain.

Father Killed. She lived to see her father, Captain James Peter Baltzelle, of the Confederate army, accidentally killed when a large and heavy piece of timber fell on him, and she also lived to see her youngest son, Preston Saylor, known as "Preston," die in a flying airplane crash fight circles as K. O. Dugan, slay her eldest son, Harry Saylor, during an argument about financial matters.

Mrs. Saylor only a few years ago was forced to go into the Bartow superior court at Clarksville and testify against her own son in telling of the slaying. Preston Saylor was convicted of the slaying, and is now serving a sentence at the state prison at Tattall.

Through all this Mrs. Saylor retained her health and fought to retain the vast estate, selling off, piece by piece, the rare pieces of furniture her grandfather purchased in Europe more than 100 years ago for the palatial home he was building here, and which was never completed.

The mansion, costing many thousands of dollars, was almost completed at the outbreak of the War Between the States. The only thing lacking was a handsome mahogany staircase, which was manufactured in New York to be re-assembled in the house.

Seized Lumber. At Memphis, Federals seized the shipments of lumber, and it never reached its destination. After the war, one misfortune after another prevented the family from completing the mansion, and at the time of her death, Mrs. Saylor was living in an ordinary six-room structure under the very shadows of the crumbling mansion walls.

Plans of her grandfather called for the house in which Mrs. Saylor lived to sometime become part of the mansion, and in 1942, he began moving toward the bird, warily. "Habitat, Canada to Paraguay and west to the Rocky mountains," he went on, reaching up a careful hand.

An inlaid marble top table, made by an Italian artist more than 100 years ago, and an English oven, equipped with an automatic spit, large enough to roast meats for 100 people, are valued relics which remain today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Saylor will be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Barnsley chapel, church Mrs. Saylor, erected long before her fortune had dwindled away.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Julia Paulis, of Chicago, and three grandchildren, Clarence Sims, a United States Army paratrooper, and John and Anton Paulis.

Jury Resumes Investigation Of Registration

Hears Large Number of Witnesses and Returns Indictment.

Resuming its investigation of alleged fraudulent registration for the last mayoralty election, the Fulton county grand jury yesterday heard a large number of witnesses and returned an indictment charging Mrs. W. S. Allen, alias Dora Batty, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with false swearing.

The indictment was based on findings of Ernest Brewer, of the solicitor general's office, and testimony of Mrs. A. McKenney, Fulton county registrar.

A number of sample ballots seized on Auburn avenue on the eve of the election were submitted to the grand jury and officers of the Negro Civil-Political League were among those questioned.

Mrs. Allen was alleged to have sworn falsely she had resided in Georgia a year prior to her registration for the election.

Rumor of Raid Against Hawaii Denied by Navy

Axis Broadcasts Lead to False Reports on Pearl Harbor.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—A Navy spokesman late today issued "a flat denial of rumors" that the Japanese were again attacking Pearl Harbor.

The spokesman said: "We have had direct communication with Honolulu. All has been and is, up to this time, quiet there. This is a flat denial of all rumors of air raids on Pearl Harbor."

The Navy statement was issued after Representative McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, had said in the house that members had told him of a radio report that "Pearl Harbor again is being attacked."

Rumors Started By Axis Radios

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—Competent foreign observers expressed the belief today that rumors of a new Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor were started by German radio broadcasts which have been recorded in New York and London since shortly before 8 a. m. (EWT).

All these broadcasts were sent out as "news items" under Oslo, Stockholm or Shanghai dates by Nazi radio stations in Berlin or in other parts of German-occupied Europe, and all of them were patently garbled versions of yesterday's Japanese aerial raid on Midway Island.

A typical broadcast was this one, recorded in New York at 7:56 a. m. (EWT) from Radio Berlin: "Shanghai—Honolulu was attacked by Japanese airplanes Thursday at 6:35 a. m. local time. It was reported here from Honolulu. The airplanes started from a Japanese airplane carrier which is said to have been accompanied by battleships and cruisers."

The only authority specifically cited for the information in any of the broadcasts was "an American news service."

Persons familiar with Axis broadcasts said this was a typical example of Nazi "war of nerves" propaganda.

MRS. ODESSA HENSON.

Mrs. Henson was elected president of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the recent convention held in Columbus. A member of the local club since 1935, she has served most capably as president, first vice president, and corresponding secretary. She represented the Atlanta club at the national convention held here in 1937, and in 1941 was a delegate-at-large from Georgia at the national convention held in Los Angeles. Mrs. Henson has been secretary to the president of Rich's, Inc., for the past 20 years.

Georgia Girls' State To Open For Week's Session Tomorrow

Arriving in College Park Sunday to assist with second annual session of Georgia Girls' State, sponsored by the Georgia Department of the American Legion Auxiliary, June 7-14 at G. M. A. will be Mesdames Gladys Medlock, H. Fred Bartlett, E. M. Lowery and E. A. Eggleston, of Atlanta; Mrs. C. R. McQuown, of Decatur; Mrs. P. M. Wise, of Winder; Mrs. Nolan McCreary, of Macon; Mrs. I. L. Shields, Columbus; Mrs. L. O. Pfeiffer, Statesboro; Mrs. J. Cal Ellis, Albany; Mrs. Everett Martin, Fitzgerald; Mrs. G. E. Giles, Fayetteville; Mrs. Myrtle Young, Eatonton; Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Edenton; Mrs. J. B. Harrell, Brunswick; Mrs. J. B. Cheatham, Toccoa, and Mrs. Mildred Estes, Madison.

Girls have been enrolled throughout Georgia in this mythical state, which is a practical application of the duties, responsibilities and privileges of American citizenship. Its purpose is to awaken within the youth of Georgia a sincere conviction that a well-informed, intelligent, participating citizenry is most vitally needed to protect and preserve American democracy. In this non-partisan project, the citizens get through active participation, a broader comprehension of the functions of government and their individual responsibilities in a democracy.

The girls will have their own city, county and state governments; elect their own public officials and learn the duties of various public offices, their functions, limitations and powers. Governor Jane Brewster, of Cedar-town, who was elected at the first Girls' State in June, 1941, will serve as governor until her successor is elected on June 10. Mrs. Gladys T. Medlock will act as legislative director. The officials of College Park will honor the girls at a reception in G. M. A. auditorium Monday evening, and at the close of the session, Saturday evening, June 5, the boys of Georgia Boys' State will hold their Governor's Ball in conjunction with the girls of Georgia Girls' State in the G. M. A. auditorium.

Miss Pharr Weds Harold I. Baker

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 5.—Mrs. Leonard John Pharr announces the marriage of Miss Sara Jeanne Pharr to Harold I. Baker, of Philadelphia, Pa., which took place on March 12.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pharr and the late Dr. Leonard John Pharr, a beloved physician of Rockdale and adjoining counties. On her maternal line she is the granddaughter of the late Marion Reeves Sams, of the well known Sams family, of Beaufort, S. C. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Newton G. Pharr, of Dacula, Ga. Finishing high school, she matriculated at the University of Georgia and studied at the High Museum of Art.

The beautiful blond bride is a kinswoman of Mrs. Chauncey Smith and her daughter, Miss Garda Horton. Her only brother is Captain Marion N. Sams, who is in the Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Baker is the son of Mrs. Harriet Shaw Baker, of Chatham, Ontario, Canada, and the late Dr. George Baker, of Mason, Mich. He was educated at the Ohio State University and Centre College in Danville, Ky., and graduated from the latter college. He is a member of the S. A. E. fraternity, and is associated with the personnel department of the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia.

Miss McDonald Weds Lt. Harlee.

Miss Doris Annette McDonald became the bride of Lieutenant Robert Lee Harlee, U. S. A., on May 24 at 6 o'clock at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Dunbar, on Columbia drive, Decatur.

Dr. Fred L. Glisson, of the First Methodist church of Canton, Ga., officiated.

The groom had as his best man his cousin, William J. Harlee. Miss Cornelia Piercy, the bride's only attendant, was becomingly attired in navy trimmed in white.

The lovely young bride wore a jacket dress of rose crepe with navy accessories. Her hat was blue trimmed in gardenias and a rose illusion veil. Her flowers were sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

After the wedding, a reception was held.

Mrs. Harlee is the only child of Mrs. Frances McDonald Roberts and the late William Horace McDonald. She graduated from Avondale High school and Marsh's Business College and attended University of Georgia Evening school.

Lieutenant Harlee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harlee, of Florence, S. C., his mother being the former Miss Annie Belle Clark. He is a graduate of Florence High school and Clemson College and is now stationed at Fort McPherson. The couple will reside at their apartment, 317 Constance street, East Point.

DR. AND MRS. CHARLES C. JARRELL.

Mrs. Inez Hamrick Foote Weds Dr. Charles C. Jarrell

Widespread social interest is attached to the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Inez Hamrick Foote, of Jacksonville, Fla., to Dr. Charles C. Jarrell, of Moultrie, formerly of Atlanta, the ceremony taking place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the parlor of the First Baptist church.

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, the pastor, assisted by Dr. Lester Rumble, officiated in the presence of only the immediate families, because of a recent bereavement in the bride's family. Miss Addie Pearl Hill rendered the musical program.

Mrs. Jarrell wore a navy blue sheer costume with white accessories and a becoming white hat. She carried a white prayer book adorned with lavender orchids.

After the ceremony, the bridal party was entertained at a buffet supper at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lester Rumble on Seventeenth street, the hosts being Dr. and Mrs. Rumble, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Matthews, Misses Mildred and Margaret Eakes. Afterward, the couple motored to Monroe, where members of the Methodist church honored the popular bride and groom at a reception given in the Methodist parsonage. They will reside in Monroe.

Mrs. Jarrell is the elder daughter of James F. Hamrick Sr., of Alberville and Mobile, Ala., and the late Mrs. Oza Harbick. The bride is the representative on her maternal and paternal sides of the most distinguished families in southern history. Her kinsmen have been identified with foremost activities in the southern states for many years.

For some time, Mrs. Jarrell has taken active part in the religious, educational and civic circles of Atlanta. Her only son is Ensign George Post Foote, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. Jarrell is regarded as one of the most eminent ministers in the Methodist denomination. He was born in Milledgeville, Ga., son of the late Rev. A. J. Jarrell, of the North Georgia Conference, the immediate families, because of a recent bereavement in the bride's family. Miss Addie Pearl Hill rendered the musical program.

Plans Announced By Opti-Mrs. Club.

The Atlanta Opti-Mrs. Club met for luncheon recently at Davison Paxon's. It was visitor's day and the club welcomed Mesdames Prentice L. Meadows, R. R. Clements, J. Daniel, M. Jones and E. M. Northcutt, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. Randall Gann was welcomed as a new member.

A book shower was given the Junior Optimistic Club and many books were received for the club boys. Mrs. E. L. Graydon, president, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Thomas G. Fowler for making the shower a success.

Mrs. Willard Patterson spoke on "Program of Co-operation with Armed Forces." Mrs. Patterson is chairman of Bundles for America committee.

Mrs. Steve Outlaw gave the Red Cross report and distributed garments to be completed. Wednesday and Friday are Opti-Mrs. Red Cross days.

The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in July when the club will sponsor Lawson General hospital day.

Honoring Miss Gish And Lieut. Alfriend.

Miss Lillian Gish and Lieutenant William J. Alfriend Jr., U. S. N. R., whose marriage takes place this afternoon at the Cathedral of St. Philip, were honored last evening at a party following their wedding rehearsal, the affair being given by the bride-elect's aunt, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith at her home on Eleventh street.

The affair took place at 7:15 o'clock, and assembled members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests. A profusion of garden flowers adorned the home.

Berkeley-Chadwell Wedding Today.

The marriage of Miss Anne Berkeley to Ensign Ernest Chadwell, U. S. N. R., will take place at 5:30 o'clock today at All Saints Episcopal church.

To Hold Singing.

The B. F. White Sacred Harp Singing Class will hold its annual singing in the DeKalb county courthouse, Decatur, Sunday, beginning at 10 o'clock and singing throughout the day.

Parties Continue For Yale Students

Numerous interesting social affairs continue to be planned in compliment to Stuart Broeman Jr. and his guest, John Flint, of West Cornwall, Conn. Mr. Broeman and Mr. Flint are roommates at Yale University.

Among additional social affairs scheduled for next week is the swimming party and alfresco dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Wayne will be hosts on Monday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Invited for the occasion is a group of the younger social contingent.

Missions Stressed At Auxiliary Session.

"Home Missions" was the theme of the recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Central Presbyterian church, held at the church.

A history of the organization of the Presbyterian churches in Atlanta and surrounding territory and the home mission work these churches have accomplished was outlined by Rev. Franklin C. Talmadge, D.D., superintendent of home missions in the Atlanta Presbytery. He was introduced by Mrs. Carl Robinson.

The devotional, "The Value of the Individual," was offered by Mrs. Henry Hills, with prayer by Mrs. Harry Alexander. Mrs. T. D. Leavitt was appointed delegate to the summer conference at Montreat, N. C., with Mrs. Walter E. Anderson as alternate. The president announced that the auxiliary would continue to sew for the Red Cross during the summer months. Prayer was offered by Dr. Stuart Oglesby, the pastor.

Annual Dance Recital.

The thirteenth annual recital of the Jack Rand School of Dancing will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Bass High auditorium.

There will be a patriotic novelty and popular numbers. A highlight of the recital will be a group number by the ballet, "Winter Wonderland."

Mrs. A. F. Akers is retiring president. The P. T. A. voted to sponsor the Social Service Center at Buckhead.

Mrs. Edwin Lockridge presented the P. T. A. in appreciation of her constructive leadership.

Prophecy Read At Sorority Formal.

The Alpha chapter of the Kappa Alpha Delta sorority entertained at its 13th annual spring formal at Druid Hills Golf Club.

The prophecy was read by Mary Lillian Hutchins and the new officers tapped.

New officers and their dates were: President, Jo Marino with Kruebel Collins; Vice President, Helen Bon with Bob Cates; Treasurer Betty Jane Garvey with James Hammond; Secretary Jean Alexander with Allan Stokes; Scribe Ella Murrell with Carl Matthews; and Sergeant-at-Arms June Atchison with Jerry Giradeau.

Mrs. Robertson Heads North Fulton P. T. A.

At the recent meeting of the North Fulton P. T. A. the following officers were installed: Mrs. W. M. Robertson, president; Mrs. Robert Holder, first vice president; Mrs. Alex Hitz, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Beall, recording secretary; Mrs. H. W. Barber, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Stacy C. Howell, treasurer.

Mrs. A. F. Akers is retiring president. The P. T. A. voted to sponsor the Social Service Center at Buckhead.

Mrs. Edwin Lockridge presented the P. T. A. in appreciation of her constructive leadership.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Chips Are Down Mister Keith Conway called and said he hoped Atlanta would turn out for the sectional qualifying rounds of the Hale America golf tournament today and Sunday at East Lake Country Club.

The caliber of golf to be played by the field of 66, seeking seven places, was recommended by Mister Conway, but he said the chief thing to keep in mind is that gallery proceeds will be divided 50-50 among USO and Navy relief.

That's the most important thing. In these times of duress the business of swinging on a small white ball and following it from tee to green, often by way of rough and bunker, may not seem important. That is, relatively speaking.

But anything that contributes to the welfare of a nation is okay. And don't forget it.

They're teeing off for the first 18 of the 54-hole qualifying test today. That means two rounds of 18 Sunday, a sort of double-header, or bargain offering.

Bob Jones plays on both days, having the unusual distinction of already being qualified for the national tournament at Ridgemoor Country Club, Chicago, June 18-21. The seven places allotted this district are exclusive of the old maestro of the middle course in golf. He's just playing to keep his game in top shape.

I'd like to be out at East Lake today to see an old partner, Cliff McGaughey, lead off the tournament qualifying sessions. A lot of fancy shotmaking will follow.

Another Challenge Atlanta also plays host in baseball to a remarkable team over the weekend. The Little Rock Travelers. For the first time since Doc Prothro they are pennant contenders in the Southern League.

So when you come right down to it any early season poll regarding managers who have done an outstanding job must place the name of Willis Hudlin first. He's a first-year pilot.

The Crackers had a chance to challenge Memphis for first place but didn't make a very stout claim. Now, Little Rock is here to challenge the Crackers for their right to second place.

And that's serious, men. The race is such at this moment that a few reverses would drop the Crackers right out of the first division. That can't happen here.

In Short Larry MacPhail was quoted in Newsweek recently as to how quickly he went out and signed Pitcher Ed Head, without scouting him, because smart operators like Earl Mann and Branch Rickey were interested. Wonder, then, why MacPhail failed to listen to Mann about signing the National League freshman star, Willard Marshall, for $20,000. He'll know better next time, perhaps.

Kenneth (Buck) Rogers, the demon photographer, asked: "When is the next Cracker day game?"

"Next Cracker day game is Saturday night at 7 o'clock," responded one of the bright young men of the sports department.

Wonders Never Cease Dept.: Beaumont, Texas, is in a rave over attendance. . . . Already past 40,000 mark. Exporters are doing better than the whole of last season. Reasons: Steve O'Neill, a peppery manager, and fancy future Detroit dandies such as Dick Wakefield.

Manager Paul Richards and I were talking over his strategy of the second Memphis game, when he inserted Pep Rambert at third base so he could hit again in place of the pitcher. . . . and Richards wondered what would have been said if Rambert had popped up again, instead of doubling, and then when he made a two-base overthrow in the ninth, Memphis would have had the winning run on second base. A noted scout wondered why Doc Prothro didn't walk Rambert to get to Blakeney. . . . Strategy's like genius, only a hair-line from insanity.

Imagine not being able to get any arachis hypogae, warmed and toasted in their summer jackets. That's the plight of Vancouver baseball fans. No peanuts because of a sharp advance in price. And a popular columnist has decried salted peanuts and popcorn as "mean substitutes, designed only to stimulate salivary glands, thus augmenting the sale of carbonated drinks." American baseball followers just don't realize when they're well off.

Tom Leib Charges Navy With Unfair Recruiting

Florida Coach Says Pre-Flight Training Units' Football Emphasis Not in Line With Aviation Plans

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 5.—(P)—Cheerful, easy-going Tom Leib, who usually finds optimism on orange trees, took time out from preflight school recruiting.

"I don't mind furnishing them with a coaching staff," said Leib, who has lost four of his five aides, "but I hate to see them meddling with boys who are in school—trying to get an education and hoping for an opportunity to finish their work—just so they can have an outstanding football or basketball team."

Navy aviation preflight schools are located at Athens, Ga.; Chapel Hill, N. C.; Iowa City, Iowa; and St. Mary's, Cal. At Athens, Athletic Director Lieutenant Commander B. L. Boynton deprecated emphasis on football, saying games with big-name schools were unimportant compared with development of able flyers.

Leib, however, said he believed the Navy's tactics were "a little removed from the intention of the program," and added "their stimulation of football schedules and competition is not in line with their program of aviation. It's going to be hard to get kids to sign up for such a program when they read in the papers where our school has 10 All-Americans lined up for their team this year."

"I believe there is quite a bit of disguise in the plan of the program," Leib continued, "and it has been bad enough recruiting the few athletes when certain schools had only about six. But now, when they learn there are 200 officers to be stationed at each of these training schools and that they are all recruiting would-be flyers for their athletic program, the colleges are going to be hard-hit."

Leib said Florida had installed

Can't Sue Louis Till After War

CHICAGO, June 5.—(P)—Circuit Judge John Prystalski ruled today that Corporal Joe Louis Barrow, world champion heavyweight boxer now stationed at Camp Upton, N. Y., need not defend an attorney's suit for $10,500 fees until after the war.

The ruling was based upon a recently enacted federal law providing relief from legal controversies for men in the armed forces. Attorney Bindley Cyrus brought the suit to collect payment for handling a divorce action brought against Barrow by his wife, Marva Trotter Barrow, a year ago. The suit was dropped after the couple was reconciled.

66 Golfers in Hale America Qualifying Today

Seven Places Await Winners In 54-Hole Test

Jones, Black, Perry in Feature Threesome at 1:50 O'Clock.

By JACK TROY.

Ridgemoor Country Club, Chicago, beckons for seven of 66 Atlanta and Dixie golfers who tee off today in the first 18 holes of the sectional qualifying at East Lake.

Thirty-five amateurs and 31 pros will make up the field. Leading off in the qualifying today are Cliff McGaughey, A. A. C., and Donald Smith, of Mobile. Starting time is 1 o'clock.

Bob Jones, who was qualified for the national Hale America tournament by special invitation, is playing in the sectional qualifying with Charlie Black, city open champion, and southern champion, Sam Perry, of Birmingham. They tee off at 1:50 today.

There's to be a gallery charge of $1 for Saturday OR Sunday and $2.50 for Saturday and Sunday. Chairman Keith Conway, representing the U. S. G. A., points out that proceeds will be equally divided between the USO and Navy relief.

The seven successful qualifiers in the 54-hole test—18 holes today and 36 holes Sunday—will compete in the National open event at Ridgemoor June 18-21.

The blue chips are down out at historic old East Lake. To paraphrase, "the moving finger writes, and having writ" there's nothing to be done about a score on any hole. It's medal play all the way.

Following is a list of players and pairings and starting times for Saturday's 18 holes at East Lake:

Waite and Ager Win Net Matches

In the finals of the Red Cross tournament last night at Northside Tennis Club Marjorie Waite defeated Florence Camp, straight sets, 6-2, 8-6, to capture the women's singles.

Johnny Ager won the men's singles with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Donald Floyd.

MacMitchell, Rice To Perform Today

NEW YORK, June 5.—(P)—The 51st annual Metropolitan A. A. U. track and field championships will be held tomorrow at Travers Island, with Miles Les MacMitchell, Three-Miler, Greg Rice and Shol-Putter Al Blozis regarded as possibilities to break meet records.

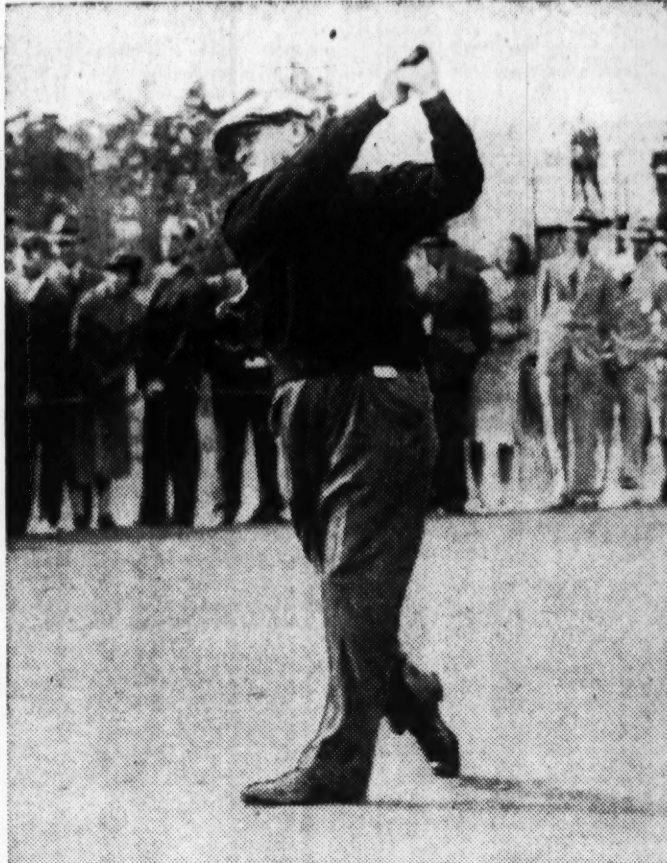

The Lady Aimed Only To Please

CHICAGO, June 5.—(P)—"If you want to help the boys in service camps," droned Wrigley Field Announcer Pat Pieper before today's Cubs-Dodgers game, "throw any foul balls hit into the stands back on the field."

But it was ladies' day.

The first foul went into the upper deck. A lass gave it a toss—right into the lower deck boxes where it struck a fan on the back of the neck.

Pat hurried to the microphone. "Please," he cried, "hand any fouls hit into the stands to the nearest usher."

PLAYS TODAY—Bob Jones, who is already qualified for the national meet, will play in the sectional qualifying rounds starting today at East Lake.

JUST ANGER.

MACON, Ga., June 5.—(P)—The day is past when a baseball club could count on happy fans if it staged a ninth-inning winning rally. Shouted an irate fan to

Milt Stock, business manager of the Sally League's Macon Peaches: "Why do you always hold these rallies to the ninth inning just when a feller's getting ready to slip out ahead of the crowd?"

Shut Out and Alsab Battle At Belmont

Three-Year-Olds Hook Up in 'Rubber Race' for Army, Navy Benefit.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(P)—For the benefit of the Army and the Navy—as well as for a winner's pay check of more than $40,000—Alsab and Shut Out hook up at Belmont tomorrow in their widely-touted "rubber match."

They're the big guys in a field of eight entered for the 74th running of the ancient Belmont stakes, the last "jewel" nailed annually in the triple crown for the turf's three-year-olds.

Shut Out, son of Equipose and "spittin' image" of his daddy, came out of Mrs. Payne Whitney's barn to win the Kentucky Derby this spring, with Alsab roaring in second. A week later, Al Sabath's Chicago champ pranced home in the Preakness and Shut Out be wound up back in the pack.

Wayne (the Cowboy) Wright piloted Shut Out in each of these outings. This time, Eddie Arcaro will be doing the steering.

If Alsab clicks this time—and he's a 3-5 betting choice right this minute—he'll pick up a bankroll of $42,420; for Shut Out or any of the others, it will be $44,670, because the "Sab" was a supplementary nominee at $2,500. With $197,585 already in the bank for his year and a half of racing, vic-

Cafe Battles Dixie Steel; Auto Tests Shoe Nine

Central Cafe and Dixie Steel take the spotlight in the 13-game card scheduled in the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation this afternoon. Play starts at 5 o'clock on the Fruit Growers' diamond, just this side of East Point.

Looked upon as an outstanding game in the first half of the City League 40-game schedule, Central and Dixie Steel are keyed to a high pitch as Central attempts to climb aboard the top berth now held exclusively by Leonard Mayo's Steelmen.

Now in second place Central has lost two games to Dixie Steel and another to Lawson General Hospital this half. Dixie Steel dropped one shutout game to Whittier Mills and Central dealt them a second defeat. A victory by Central will tie up the lead.

The three-way knot in the Scott League is certain to partly untangle as Motor Transport and Dixie Culvert meet at Hapeville in the league feature. White Provision, also tied with Dixie Culvert and Oakland City for the lead, will meet Smyrna.

Peck Norton's Western Auto's champions are in for a hot time as they defend their defeatless Atlanta League record against General Shoe, a second place team.

Buckhead Elks are out to upset Rogers from its second place standing in the Georgia League, while Exposition Mills, league leaders, will clash with Little Star at J. A. White.

THE SCHEDULE.
Fulton Bag vs. Lawson General Hospital at Glenn Field, 4:30 o'clock. Umpires Williams and Moon.
Dixie Steel vs. Central Cafe at Fruit Growers, 5 o'clock. Umpires Austin and Garner.
Clarkdale vs. Whittier Mills at Whittier.

Mrs. Eakin Wins 'Best Nine' Prize

Mrs. W. S. Eakin shot a 42 to win the "best nine" prize in yesterday's tournament held by the Druid Hills Women's Association. Mrs. C. C. Clower was runner-up. Mrs. A. M. Dimmock won putting honors with a 31 and her 92 was best score for 18 holes.

Wyatt Beats Cubs; Yanks Whip Indians

Reds Capture Double-Header From Braves

Pirates Finally Win One, Beat Phillies, 6 to 5.

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers chalked up their fourth straight victory today as Whit Wyatt and Hugh Casey combined on a nine-hit pitching job to whip the Cubs, 6 to 3, in the first game of a double-header. A 10th-inning double by Phil Cavaretta drove in the run that gave the Cubs the nightcap, 4-3.

Crackers Rout Chicks; Meet Pebs at Twilight

Atlanta Seizes Seven Runs in Eighth as 13 Men Go To Bat in Hitting Jamboree.

By JACK TROY
Constitution Sports Editor.

The Memphis Chicks encountered an aroused Cracker team and barely escaped with their lives last night, going down under a barrage of 17 hits and dropping the final game of the series, 14 to 4.

Professor Emile Lochbaum, back in form, allowed only three scattered hits and pitched shutout baseball for seven innings. He gave up the four runs on as many hits in the last two innings as the Crackers coasted in.

Gene Lambert was shelled from the mound in the sixth and his successor, Kinder, was the victim of one of the top Cracker rallies of the season, a seven-run eighth inning.

Of the 17 hits Peter Thomassie had three and all the other Crackers except Lochbaum and Legrant Scott had two apiece. Lochbaum hit a triple, however.

RAMBERT BUSY.
Pep Rambert, who played most of the game at third base and finished behind the plate, with Doc Smith going to third, drove in three runs with a triple. Lochbaum also hit a two-run triple.

The Crackers, whittling the Memphis lead to two and one-half games as they came out with an even break in the four-game series, had the invaders on the run last night.

Just as a n a n a, accomplished rock outpaw, will open a series with the third-place Little Rock Travelers in a novel Saturday afternoon-night game starting at 7 p. m. Most of the contest will be played in daylight, it is figured.

The Crackers, base-hit starved, sort of gorged themselves last night and may be tough to handle hereafter.

Instead of the Chicks going out in front as they had done in the first three games, the Crackers turned the tables and took a two-run lead in the first inning. Rambert led off with a single. Glock hit, a fielder's choice and Rambert was safe when Fair dropped Adair's throw. Letch was bunted and hit. O'Brien came up and scored.

Lambert threw wild to first. Scott forced Letch and Glock scored on the play. Browne fanned, but Thomassie walked and a double steal put runners on second and third as O'Brien came up and fled out.

TWO MORE RUNS.
The Crackers teed off on Lambert again in the fifth, adding two more runs to their lead. Smith led off with a single and Lochbaum sacrificed. Rambert grounded to the pitcher for the second out. The Crackers singled and scored. Glock stole second and scored on Letch's single.

Lambert didn't survive the sixth and Kinder came to the rescue as the Crackers scored three more runs. There were successive singles by Letch, Thomassie and O'Brien, with Browne scoring. Smith fouled out to Veverka, but Lochbaum slapped a triple to right, and Thomassie and O'Brien crossed home plate.

Lochbaum had pitched ball to the Chicks had been able to get only three infield hits until the eighth when they cut loose and scored three runs. Culey walked and Adair was safe on Rambert's error. Veverka doubled, scoring Roney and both Veverka and Adair rambled across on Gautreaux' single.

CRACKERS RUN WILD.
The Crackers scored seven runs on eight hits in the eighth, 13 men going to bat. Among the hitting was a triple by Rambert with three on. Glock, Scott, Browne, O'Brien and Smith each got a hit while Thomassie got two. Letch bled in by a pitcher's ball and O'Brien also drew a walk.

Doubles by Mauldin and Fair gave the Chicks their final run in the ninth.

Train Youth For Defense-Dr. Brittain

Tech President Raps Self-Styled 'Progressive Educators.'

STATESBORO, Ga., June 5.—(AP)—Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, declared today that "in no uncertain terms, history speaks today and warns that American youth should never again be permitted to reach manhood without devoting at least a year's training to make him ready and physically fit to defend his liberty and freedom of thought against the Hitler and Mussolinis of our time."

Dr. Brittain spoke at commencement exercises of the Georgia Teachers' College here.

"Given an equal chance, there are no better fighting men than the British and American soldiers," he said, "but what can they do if strong minorities teach them to regard self-defense and military discipline as outmoded, antiscientific, and belonging to the barbaric past?"

Reviewing examples from history, Dr. Brittain asked "what does this record of history show? It speaks clearly and proves that since the dawn of history man has always had to defend himself and his home from the strong arm eager to rob and enslave him."

He said that in this age "the tendency too often, even in education, has been to let our children shun labor and study what they please, when they please, and if they please, forgetting the early Bible injunction that man by work and not play may re-enter his lost Eden."

"Paper-cutting and weak dilutions of the old fundamentals can never take the place of mathematics, science, or linguistic training even if proposed by that sometimes eloquent but always half-baked group of self-styled 'progressive educators.' Real work here as well as in physical and military training will save us from the degeneracy into which we are accused of drifting according to the author of 'Main Kampf.'"

Valdosta Livestock

Sale Totals $8,865

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 5.—A lively demand created spirited bidding Thursday at the livestock sale conducted by the Valdosta Stock Yards, the sales totaling $8,865. Calves brought up to 12 cents a pound and best steers and heifers sold for from 7 to 11.5 cents, while No. 1 hogs brought 13.25 cents a pound.

S. S. Boone, manager of the stock yards, said the sale was satisfactory to sellers as well as buyers, and it is noted that there is a steady increase in the demand for livestock as well as in the number of buyers appearing as bidders in the ring at each sale.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

I'm digging up an epigram I wrote during the last war and which had swung around the great circle again.

"Freedom of speech is yours if you speak for freedom."

That's as true as a piano in the factory and I would like to see it carved over a post-office or two.

Here's a more recent one from October, 1937: "The first clouds of smoke from a newspaper chimney were the thunderheads of the gathering storm of liberty."

"Your newspaper is sky-writing at sea-level."

"And when you gag your press you are poisoning your own watch dog."

U. S. Assumes Full Control of Food Supplies

Move May Bring Far-Reaching Changes in Eating Habits.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—The government assumed complete war-time control over food supplies today in a move which eventually may make far-reaching changes in the eating habits of American civilians.

Designed to assure ample supplies for the fighting forces of this country and its allies, this control was vested by the War Production Board in a nine-member food requirements committee under the chairmanship of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

The group has authority to say what foods may be produced or may not be produced, to determine what commodities may be imported or exported, and to allocate food supplies among civilians, the armed forces, and American allies.

Besides the Agriculture Department, the committee has representatives from the State, War and Navy Departments, the lend-lease administration, the Board of Economic Warfare, and the WPB division of industry operations, materials, and civilian supply.

With creation of this powerful committee focusing new attention on present and prospective food supplies, Agriculture Department officials emphasized that it should not be assumed that food shortages or consumer rationing of most foods are in prospect.

The total supply of food this year is expected, they reiterated, to be the largest on record and larger than total requirements, including those of Great Britain and Russia under the lend-lease program.

Shortage may occur, and have appeared, in some individual items, particularly sugar, canned vegetables, canned fish, pork, animal fats, vegetable oils, coffee, tea, cocoa, spices and tropical fruits. Plentiful supplies of wheat, fresh fruits and vegetables, fluid milk and cream, eggs, beef, lamb and mutton are in prospect.

BENEFITS FOR DEPENDENTS.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—The Senate Labor Committee approved today a bill to pay federal benefits of $30 to $85 a month to dependents of civilians killed or persons injured in war operations, including practice blackouts.

Sob Song About 'Dear Old Dad' Impells Runaways To Go Home

The rich baritone voice of Assistant Police Chief A. J. Holcombe last night was officially credited by his colleagues with causing Ruth Mills, 15, of Athens, Ga., and Betty Simpson, also 15, of High Point, N. C., to change their minds and decide to go back home.

The two girls, picked up for questioning yesterday by police, told Policewomen Mrs. J. C. Davis and Mrs. Vannie MacDonough they were en route to Anniston, Ala., to see their boy friends. They refused to return to their homes, and the policewomen deemed it advisable to confine them in the juvenile detention home and communicate with their parents.

They were left temporarily in the custody of Chief Holcombe in his office while awaiting transportation to the juvenile home.

As they sat there, Chief Holcombe, who is fond of singing, began humming a tune. Then his voice grew louder, and instead of humming he broke into words.

"Give Dear Old Dad a Few Flowers," he sang. "Do not be deceitful, but make his life cheerful."

"Stop," one of the girls shouted. "I'll go home—I want to see my daddy—I love him."

The second girl also agreed, and machinery was immediately put into motion to return them to their homes.

Navy School Adjusts Self At University

Regular Studies Not To Be Interfered With by Advent of Army Units

ATHENS, Ga., June 5.—(P)—The Navy goes to college at a "school within a school" here—and the University of Georgia is ready to take care of 2,100 trainees of the new Naval Aviation pre-flight school and its own 3,000 students.

Operating with facilities furnished by the University and upon its campus, the Navy will not interfere with the college program. "There will still be ample buildings for the University to take care of its regular students under present high standards," officials say.

Instructors for new courses are being supplied by the Navy, which announced today that nine new teachers have been engaged to instruct the aviation cadets in mathematics and physics.

Office and classroom space for the Navy school will be provided in Baldwin Hall, the Forestry building, and the Physical Education building.

For recreation and athletics the cadets will use Memorial hall and a new $110,000 addition, as well as university tennis courts, swimming pools and other facilities.

Housing space will be provided by eight dormitories and the new barracks. The barracks, costing $110,000, will be used for 250 men.

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE—Blasted to fragments by a two-night Nazi blitz, this residential district of Bath,

England, lies shattered in the light of day. Bombs also damaged the Abbey and other churches in the town.

Hog Prices Stiffen

At Sale in Vidalia

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VIDALIA, Ga., June 5.—Prices for pork animals stiffened slightly at this week's sales at the Vidalia livestock auctions, feeder pigs again bringing the feature prices and remaining in heavy demand.

In the beef ring, steers and heifers sold at $11.50; fat cows at $8; cutters at $7; canners at $8; best feeder steers and heifers sold up to $13.50 with medium grade

88 Air Raid Wardens

Graduate at Moultrie

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MOULTRIE, Ga., June 5.—A class of 88 air raid wardens graduated here tonight at special exercises. The graduation of these wardens marked the first exercises of the kind ever held here. The 88 men who were given certificates have undergone weeks of intensive training and special instructions in meeting air raid emergencies.

Bob Humphreys is director of the local aircraft warning service. C. B. Allen, editor of The Observer, delivered the address at the exercises.

feeder yearlings at $8. Fat bulls brought up to $10.50 and medium bulls sold at $9.
